Sick Girl Snips Ropes Saves Cash

By DEREK SIDENIUS
Times Staff

Eighteen-year-old Nancy Hemeon couldn't have picked a better day to be ill Monday.

Asleep in a second floor bedroom of her parent's elegant two-storey home at 753 Pemberton, she awoke to the cry of her mother yelling for her.

"I couldn't believe it. I thought she had been shot. I became almost hysterical," Nancy told the Times today.

Mrs. Hemeon cried out: "Go next door and call police — no wait, untie me first!"

The two ran to a neighbor's house where Mrs. Hemeon phoned her husband, Roger, manager of the Royal Bank of Canada, at 1108 Government. Too late. He'd left. She contacted Victoria police and related to them what had happened.

At about 2:10 p.m. Monday the mother of seven had answered a knock at the back door and found two men wearing ski masks and sun glasses — one pointing a gun at her, thd other a dagger.

She said they ordered her to "get back".

"At first I thought it was a joke," she said today. "But it only took 30 seconds before I realized they meant business."

The gunmen asked her name, where her husband was, and whether anyone else was home.

Thinking quickly she replied she was alone — three of her children were at school, another two at work, a seventh lives on his own.

She said she didn't tell them about Nancy.

"I didn't put up any fight because I didn't want to wake her . . . I knew she would panic and be more of a hindrance than a help."

The gunman forced her to call her husband at the bank. "Speak to no one else," he warned. He then took the phone and told Hemeon to place $30,000 in small bills in a bag, drive to UVic's Centennial Stadium parking lot, walk away and leave the package on the front seat of his car.

"We'll give you half an hour — do as we say or your wife will get it," he added.

Hemeon did as he was told.

The men cut the telephone wire, then tied Mrs. Hemeon's wrists and ankles with fibreglas tape they brought and placed an elastic bandage over her mouth.

"They were going to put me in a hall cupboard but I said it was too small and probably I wouldn't fit."

They carried her instead into a den off the kitchen. The gag slipped off but they didn't stop to put it back on. They shut the door and went out back telling her not to move because someone would be watching her.

She said later she didn't believe them and that when they had gone out she wiggled her way across the floor.

"Fortunately when they closed the door the latch didn't click. I couldn't have got out if it had. I got my fingers under the door and inched it open."

She flopped her way to the bottom of the staircase and screamed for Nancy who was sound asleep.

"I could hear her calling in the distance," Nancy said. "I knew by the sound of her voice something was wrong."

Mrs. Hemeon said if Nancy hadn't been at home she wouldn't have been able to get free.

"This house is an old one, well built and with thick walls. I don't think anyone could have heard me outside."

Nancy, who works as a bank teller, said it was "a miracle" she was at home.

"I never, never get sick. But Monday when I woke up I just couldn't go to work. I was really, really tired."

Victoria police said they got the call from Mrs. Hemeon at 2:40 p.m. and were at the scene of the drop-off within minutes.

"They were so quick they were probably there before the men arrived," Mrs. Hemeon said. "From our place to the university is a good 15-minute drive."

The money hadn't been taken from the Hemeon car.

Police from Victoria, Saanich and Oak Bay set up a stake-out but called it off at 4:30 p.m. Fearing the men may return, an officer spent the night inside the Hemeon home and patrols in the area were stepped up.

Police described the men as 5'6" to 5'7" tall and probably in their early 20s. They were wearing blue jeans and running shoes. One wore a beige coat, the other a denim coat.

Vancouver Church Burns

VANCOUVER (CP) — A historic Vancouver landmark was lost today when fire destroyed St. John's United Church at 1401 Comox. The spectacular blaze was fought by more than 100 firemen using 14 pieces of equipment.

Only the stone walls and the steeple remained surrounding the gutted ruins of the church interior as firemen mopped up.

Damage was estimated at about $1 million by C. I. Colwell, chairman of the church board. This included a pipe organ installed in 1907 valued at $60,000 and a wrought iron rail around the balcony valued at $100,000.

Colwell said the church was only insured at one-half to three-quarter of its total value.

The fire began about 2 a.m. and when firemen first arrived on the scene it was only a two-alarm blaze.

More equipment was called in as the fire spread. By the height of the blaze, when flames engulfed nearly all of the roof and interior, it was a five-alarm fire.

The fire was under control by 4:30 a.m.

Cause of the fire is unknown.

VANCOUVER CRACKDOWN

17 Held in Drug Swoop

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCMP launched a major narcotics crackdown in Vancouver overnight and warrants were issued for the arrest of 25 persons, some of them alleged to be major figures in the international drug trade, officials here said today.

Seventeen of those named were surprised in their homes and police are looking for the other eight.

One RCMP official said the 25 represent a "high-powered" group. He said RCMP action will have great impact on the illicit flow of drugs through Vancouver from the Orient.

The "bust" is the latest in a series of actions over the last two months which has seen the seizure of drugs worth between $4.5 million and $5 million on the illicit market, officials said.

The RCMP said warrants were issued at the end of an undercover operation directed at "high level" drug trafficking. A young constable working undercover bought a considerable quantity of heroin, cocaine and opium, the officials said.

The operation started in June. Police said the operation Monday night uncovered three pounds two ounces, plus 256 one-fix caps of heroin, worth about $500,000 on the street; one pound seven ounces and five spoons of cocaine worth $39,000; and two pounds one gram of opium worth about $1,200.

The news of the RCMP action comes a week after narcotics enforcement representatives from France, Canada and the United States meeting here made note of the increase in drug traffic through Vancouver.

The representatives and RCMP officials said that Oriental trade has grown since Turkey cut off the major source of opium — the base for heroin — by stopping farmers from growing it.

The oriental heroin flowed through Vancouver and other North American ports and through Amsterdam in Europe.

Police said some of the drugs arriving in Vancouver were for markets elsewhere in Canada and the United States. But they also said it was natural for narcotics to flow into Vancouver because between 60 and 70 per cent of Canadian addicts live in British Columbia.

RCMP officials estimate there are 16,000 to 19,000 addicts in Canada at present.

TRAINER with leashed police dog patrols the grounds outside The Hague's Scheveningen Prison today where four armed convicts are in the fourth day of a siege with 16 hostages. Monday night, they freed an 11-year-old boy, the last of four children being held. Today the men demanded a plane to fly them to freedom.

U.S. Index Signals 'Bad Times'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. commerce department said today the index of leading economic indicators suffered its worst plunge in 23 years last month.

"The index seems to be delivering a message, a signal that bad times are ahead," a department economist said.

The index, which measures the progress of eight sectors of the American economy ranging from unemployment to stock market prices, dropped 2.5 per cent from August to September. It was the sharpest monthly plunge since 2.9 per cent in June, 1951.

The September index showed that unemployment increased, manufacturers' orders for appliances and other durable goods declined, stock prices and building permits fell and the prices for industrial materials were lower.

In addition, manufacturers placed orders for new equipment which could not be delivered and the ratio of prices to labor costs increased.

He said the September decline was largely due to the falling stock market in September but the market recovered in October.

But a department economist said the "general decline in indicators suggests that there is an overwhelming indication that further declines in economic activity are ahead."

2-TONE HORN AMBULANCE

The two-tone horn used on emergency vehicles in Europe has been adopted by the British Columbia Emergency Health Services Commission for the provincial ambulance fleet.

Dr. Peter Ransford, the commission's executive director, said today use of the two-tone klaxon has been reserved by the motor vehicles branch for exclusive use of ambulances.

There are two advantages to a distinctive sound for emergency vehicles, he suggested. It will tell people an ambulance is coming and provide a less terrifying sound than the traditional siren for patients carried in ambulances.

Industry Takeovers For U.K.

LONDON (CP) — The Labor government announced plans today to nationalize key British industries, including aircraft construction and shipbuilding. It also said it intends to increase government participation in North Sea oil development.

The plans were announced in the speech from the throne, read at the opening of Parliament by the Queen.

No timetable was announced for the nationalization program. The Labor government obtained a majority in winning the Oct. 10 election and might stay in power as long as five years.

The government also announced that laws will be introduced to take over community ownership of land required for development, to safeguard tourists against failure of travel firms, and to end sex discrimination.

The government also said it intends to hold a referendum within 12 months so the British people can decide whether they want Britain to remain in the European Common Market.

Intensive security precautions were in force as the Queen drove from Buckingham Palace to the House of Commons to read the speech. Hundreds of mounted and foot police lined the Queen's route in the tightest security many observers recalled in the British capital.

Police apparently feared an attack by the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

The government also announced plans to set up a National Enterprise Board to extend state participation in the private sector of industry, and to set up assemblies for Scotland and Wales.

4-Cent Hike Seen In Milk Prices

Price of a quart of milk will likely rise four cents in Victoria next week, partially because of the removal of a federal subsidy to milk producers.

Increased production costs of raw milk and packaging materials are also a factor, said Neil Gray, assistant general manager of the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association.

The federal government's five-cent-a-quart subsidy is being removed in stages, with two cents now, two cents in January and the rest before the end of February, said Gray.

More increases in retail rates can be expected in 1974 then, he said.

Meanwhile, the Retail Council of Canada has advised grocery stores that they are under no obligation to pass on to consumers a 24-cent-a-pound federal skim milk powder subsidy, council spokesman Alistair Smith said Monday.

In a telephone interview from Toronto, Smith said retailers have been told they "run the risk of a certain amount of government criticism" if they refuse to pass on the subsidy.

But there was no law requiring them to sell at set prices simply because of the government subsidy program.

Under the year-old program, the government makes payments to processors who keep their prices from rising. Processors, in turn, are asked to make sure the lower prices are passed on to consumers.

Surrey Man Shot

SURREY (CP) — Surrey RCMP said they are searching for a suspect and a number of accomplices in the shooting death of a 22-year-old man today.

The victim was shot at about 12:40 a.m. His name has not been released. Police said they suspect the shooting followed an altercation in a hotel parking lot.

CABINET AIDES' WAGES UP 10%

Salary increases of just over 10 per cent have been granted to provincial government employees appointed by the cabinet.

Granted Monday, the increases mean the average executive assistant to a minister will make more than $19,000, and heads of several government boards will get more than $43,000.

Increases were also given to secretaries to cabinet ministers, MLAs and opposition caucuses.

Standard salary for a ministerial executive assistant will be $19,465, up from $17,628; administrative assistants will receive $23,710 a year, up from $21,500; and heads of the Labor Relations Board, the Law Reform Commission and the Police Commission will get $43,055 a year, up from $39,000.

The Social Credit administrative assistant, Dan Campbell, will be paid $19,465 and Liberal assistant, Gerry Kristianson will get $14,425.

GRAIN MEN OFF 'SICK' AGAIN TODAY

Bill Longmuir of the Canadian Grain Commission said most of the 48 West Coast inspectors had called in sick.

The bookoff comes only two weeks after Parliament ended the seven-week grainhandlers' dispute.

Victoria's two grain inspectors have not joined the bookoffs and were on the job Monday and today.

Nixon 'Stable' After Surgery

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Former president Nixon underwent emergency surgery Tuesday after discovery of a new blood clot endangering his life and doctors said afterwards their insertion of a clip on a vein in his groin should overcome the danger permanently.

The 61-year-old Nixon was described as "doing well" and in "stable" condition after an operation of about an hour starting at 5:30 a.m. by five doctors at Long Beach Memorial Hospital.

The "urgent surgery" was ordered Monday night, with Nixon's agreement, by his personal physician, Dr. John Lungren, when a new test showed another clot in the left leg above those found before and closer to the vena cava which leads directly to the heart.

Circled Maps May Mark Grisly Death Trail

VANCOUVER (CP) — Detectives on both sides of the border today are trying to piece together evidence in what they fear may be a grisly trail of sex murders stretching from B.C. and the western U.S. to Minnesota.

Minneapolis officials said a suspect, held in lieu of $250,000 bail, is charged with kidnapping, attempted murder and an unnatural sex act with a 19-year-old woman, five offences against a 13-year-old girl and aggravated assault on a 17-year-old "for now."

Maps seized in Seattle and Minneapolis in connection with the arrest of a 47-year-old man in Minneapolis have police working on the theory that circles drawn on them could indicate where the bodies of victims are buried.

There are more than 200 places marked on Washington and Minnesota state highway maps.

"We're trying to place the man in B.C.," said Staff-Sgt. Fred Bondaruk, head of the RCMP's special murder squad, who spent six days last week working with the Hennepin County sheriff's office in Minneapolis.

"We know he's been through Vancouver and parts of the province, and we want to determine the exact times and places."

The man, described by one Seattle detective as "a brutal savage," is under investigation for at least two murders in the Minneapolis area.

In both the B.C. and Minnesota killings, the victims were sexually assaulted before they were bludgeoned to death. However, Bonkaruk said no circled maps of B.C. have been found.

The man, who has spent more than 20 years in U.S. prisons, had been sentenced to death after admitting the rape and murder of a 57-year-old woman in Anchorage in 1949. But the conviction was

Hunt Denies Charge He Tried Blackmail

THE BETTER HALF By Barnes

"I would have had this stupid thing assembled by now, if I'd recognized a grooved cotter pin and a wing-flanged nut!"

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Howard Hunt denied under bitter cross-examination today that he had blackmailed or extorted the White House in his demands for money during the Watergate cover-up.

William Hundley, attorney for former attorney general John Mitchell, pressed Hunt repeatedly and asked him whether it was true that assistant Watergate prosecutor Richard Ben-Veniste had asked him to commit perjury at the trial of Mitchell and four other former associates of Richard Nixon.

Hunt, 56, acknowledged masternind of the 1971 Ellsberg and 1972 Watergate break-ins, testified late Monday that he decided to tell the truth about Watergate after a reading of the transcripts of the White House tapes convinced him "these men were not worth my continued loyalty."

"Besides protecting these people, you were also blackmailing them?" Hundley asked.

"At no time," Hunt, who with his wife had received more than $100,000 in cash during the cover-up period, said.

"At no time?" Hundley said.

"No, sir," Hunt said.

"You don't consider your comments to disclose 'seamy' things you had done for the White House, you don't consider that blackmail?"

"No, Sir."

"What do you consider it — investment planning?" Hundley asked.

"I consider it in the nature of a bill collector," Hunt said.

Hunt provided the four-week-old trial with its most dramatic moments Monday when he said he lied 12 times to the Watergate grand jury, but now has decided to tell the truth now because others involved "were not worthy of my . . . loyalty."

Hunt told simply of the death of his wife Dorothy, also an alleged co-conspirator in the Watergate cover-up. She was killed Dec. 8, 1972, in a jet crash near Chicago's Midway Airport.

Twelve times Ben-Veniste read portions of Hunt's grand jury testimony in early 1973, and 12 times Hunt admitted in one word that his testimony had been "false" or "evasive."

"Did there come a time you decided to tell the truth?" Ben-Veniste asked.

"While I was in prison. I realized that due to the increasing furor over Watergate the White House could do nothing for me. And that was the situation I accepted. In January I was released from prison, not due to any intervention or favoritism on the part of the White House or the executive branch but solely due to the judicial process itself. I immediately began to reconstruct my life. I tried to put as much of this unpleasantness in the far reaches of my mind as I could.

"In the spring of this year I began to read the White House tapes. I felt a sense of rude awakening. I realized these men were not worthy of my continued and future loyalty. I did nothing about my testimony (in which he had lied before the grand jury). It was in my own self interest to leave the situation as it was.

"In the early summer I received a subpoena to testify at this trial. I was faced with the hard decision — whether I should continue to lie to protect others or to tell the truth once and for all. My attorneys urged me to make a full revelation.

"I sensed even my own children were no fully persuaded my testimony in all respects weas factual and candid. As a result of all these facts I resolved to make the hard decision to testify to the entire truth."

U.S. 'Accepts' Nonalignment

NEW DELHI (AP) — Henry Kissinger says the U.S. government has abandoned its cold war opposition to governments that take neither side in the U.S. rivalry with the Soviet Union.

"The United States accepts nonalaignment," the U.S. state secretary said Monday in a major address to the Indian Council of Foreign Affairs "In fact, America sees a world of free, independent, sovereign states as being decidedly in its own national interest."

CABBAGES TO NDP

A fresh cabbage was delivered to every B.C. cabinet minister Monday in an effort to prove the agricultural worth of a 158-acre parcel of land in Richmond.

A delegation, headed by a representative of the Society for Pollution and Environmental Control, told Agriculture Minister Dave Stupich that in return for the cabbages they want the land placed under the Agricultural Land Reserve.

SPEC spokesman Murray Griffin, said the land, a market garden owned by Howard Wong Farms, has been designated as part of the Riverside industrial site.

He said the land is one of the most valuable pieces of agricultural land in Richmond and the designation is "criminal."

Stupich said future designation of the land has been considered by the government's Environment and Land Use Committee, and "some action will be directed by cabinet next Thursday."

Air Pilots Vote to Strike

MONTREAL (CP) — Negotiations were to continue today after the announcement Monday that Air Canada's 1,500 pilots have voted overwhelmingly to strike if necessary to back contract demands.

The Canadian Air Line Pilots Association, representing the men, said in a statement it would make an announcement of "major significance" concerning the dispute Friday.

An airline spokesman said earlier this month the pilots had indicated in contract talks they would delay any strike action until the end of October. The men have voted 91 per cent in favor of strike action if necessary.

The pilots have had the legal right to strike since Oct. 10 and the union took out a $4 million bank loan earlier this year to provide a strike fund.

Labor Minister John Munro said Oct. 9 in Ottawa that the pilots had rejected a conciliation proposal by Stanley Hart, a Montreal labor lawyer, that called for an 18-month contract with 10 per cent salary increases retroactive to June 2 and another six per cent next April.

Under the contract that expired June 1, salaries ranged from $9,000 annually for junior pilots to $50,000 for senior men.

"I don't think they want a strike any more than we do," an Air Canada spokesman said Monday. "I hope we can come to an understanding."

Neither side would reveal details of the talks.

New dual ingredient medicine double effective for hemorrhoid sufferers.

The combination of an anaesthetic to relieve pain and itch quickly, and a soothing cream to help heal sore tissues makes new Hemoraids particularly effective on hemorrhoids.

Diperodon Hydrochloride—the water-soluble anaesthetic — spreads long-lasting relief directly into sore tissues by combining easily with natural, protective body moisture. This helps Hemoraids' smooth cream to effectively coat the irritated area, quickly relieving pain and itch.

The anaesthetic is carried in a soft-textured cream which can be spread over the most sensitive tissues without additional discomfort. And this soothing, cooling cream, in itself, has valuable healing properties. In suppository form, Hemoraids melts quickly and easily after insertion, becoming a gentle, healing cream.

MALTA TO CUT ROYAL LINKS

VALLETTA (AP) — Malta, the Mediterranean island awarded the George Cross in 1942 by King George VI for its people's fortitude during the Second World War, is to cut its royal links and become a republic, says Prime Minister Dom Mintoff.

"The present constitution has been imposed by the British. We cannot go on with a British queen" Mintoff told a crowd of 5,000 here.

Mintoff, addressing a mass rally Sunday to mark his 25th year as leader of the Maltese Labor Party, added that the Maltese respected the Queen — who is symbolic head of state in Malta — and her family, "but she is not Maltese."

The Maltese government is due to present plans for a new constitution for the island either at the end of this year or early next year.

The island was annexed to the Crown in 1814.

Internal self-government was introduced and elections held in 1962. The Maltese government, with British approval, prepared a new constitution which made the Queen symbolic head of state and provided for a House of Representatives and a Cabinet.

The constitution was approved by referendum and introduced in 1964 when Malta became independent.

Re-tried for the killing, he was given a life sentence and later released from Leavenworth penitentiary on parole.

A series of violations, for burglaries in Minnesota and the Seattle areas cost him more time in Alcatraz where he did a year in solitary confinement for attacking a guard — and the McNeil Island, Wash., penitentiary.

He was released in 1971 and opened a gas station in north Seattle which built up one of the highest sales volumes in the city.

Two years later he was arrested in connection with the bludgeoning death of 15-year-old Cathy Sue Miller, whose nude, decomposed body was found on an Indian reserve near Marysville, 45 miles north of Seattle. The girl had answered an ad to work pumping gas.

Seattle police were unable to build a strong enough case for an indictment, and the suspect moved back to Minnesota in late 1973. Since then, detectives say the man has been back and forth between Minneapolis and the West Coast two or three times.

A Seattle detective, meanwhile, underplayed the prospect of 200 bodies being turned up in the investigation, but he admitted the possibility exists.

"There are a lot of missing girls and a lot of dead girls around her, up there (in B.C.), and in Minnesota," he said, refering to the disappearance of several young Washington college co-eds in the last 14 months.

"The number of missing persons and undetected missing persons is unbelievable, and 220 is not that many when you think about it.

"We're looking at him, and we're probably looking at others too, but the only way we're to know for sure is if he talks."

A spokesman for Hennepin County, Minn., Sherrif Don Omodt said Monday night that the suspect was arrested at a south Minneapolis boarding house.

He said the investigation was started as a result of the assaults on the 13- and 19-year-old girls.

Kop's Hat In Ring

Electrical engineer Edward Kop, of 3187 Stevenson Place, was one of 11 candidates who filed nomination papers Monday for the Nov. 15 civic election in the city of Victoria.

His name was inadvertently omitted from the Times report Monday, as the full list of candidates' names wasn't available to reporters until after the noon deadline for receipt of nominations.

It's Not Cricket: Whelan

OTTAWA (CP) — Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan angrily accused former consumer affairs minister Herb Gray Tuesday of using information gleaned in secret cabinet meetings as the basis for questions about egg prices.

"It's not cricket," Whelan told reporters shortly after a three-hour meeting of the special Commons egg inquiry.

It was unfair that Gray used information about egg prices learned in cabinet meetings as a basis for his committee questions. The former consumer affairs minister, who was forced out of the cabinet in August, denied the accusations, saying his questioning was based solely on public documents.

He had asked Whelan whether the egg surplus that eventually ended with the destruction of 28 million rotten eggs could have been prevented if egg prices had been lower.

It appears that farmers had produced more than they were allotted under quotas to take advantage of high egg prices.

"I don't know what he's so worried about," Gray said. "I was just helping the committee get the facts."

Gray said after the committee meeting that there appeared to be "definite links" between Whelan and the Canadian Egg Marketing Agency which oversees egg production and marketing in the country.

Throughout the hearing Whelan disclaimed responsibility for CEMA's actions, saying he could not dictate to the agency.

Rather, Whelan said, he was responsible to Parliament for the National Farm Products Marketing Council under which CEMA and other marketing agencies are established.

No 'War Of Words'

Attorney-General Alex Macdonald refused comment today on rent increase tactics by landlords in the province saying he wouldn't get involved in a "war of words" situation.

The attorney-general reiterated the freeze on rent increases under the Residential Premises Interim Stablilization Act is still in effect and new rent increase guidelines will be effective Jan. 1, 1975.

Although the B.C. Rental Housing Council has told its members to issue notices of rent increases effective after Jan. 1, Macdonald said he is considering no direct action in the near future.

Asked if he was considering laying charges against the landlords under the federal Combines Act which prohibits any across the board price increase by one particular segment of the economy, the attorney-general said he was not.

Services Switched

HURST, England (AP)—A church in the town of Hurst has decided to hold its evening services in the afternoon this winter to save fuel. The decision was made after church leaders learned its oil bill will go to $1,200 this winter from $480 last year.

Unflagging Patriotism Almost Causes Strike

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) — A bridge inspection tour by Prince Charles almost turned into a major industrial strike today when a foreman fired an English migrant who showed up for work dressed in Union Jack colors.

Australians quickly dubbed the incident the Case of the Prince and the Patriot.

The foreman fired Andrew Anderson, 46, when he arrived for work on the multi-million dollar West Gate bridge project wearing a red, white and blue pullover and socks to match.

He also carried a plastic bag emblazoned with a Union Jack and containing a bouquet of red, white and blue flowers which he said he would present to Charles if given the opportunity.

He also wore his regulation steel safety helmet and hob-nailed boots.

"You're sacked," said the foreman.

"Now that's not nice," said Anderson, who immediately complained to his union.

The union told the bridge management if Anderson were not immediately reinstated, the entire work force would not only stop work but would play cricket on top of the uncompleted bridge and would invite Prince Charles to join them when he arrived.

Anderson was re-hired and was in the crowd smiling broadly in his patriotic attire but apparently unnoticed when the prince paid his visit.

While his fate was being deliberated, Anderson told reporters, "Prince Charles is the sort of a bloke who can take a joke. Yesterday a girl gave him a dandelion and he wore it in his buttonhole. I thought it was time for the workers to do their bit."

Lockout Notice

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pacific Press Ltd., which prints the Sun and The Province, served 72-hour lockout notice Monday on 1,400 employees.

Company manager Dave Stinson said the firm will not lock out employees unless one of its nine unions goes on strike.

Truckers affiliated with the Printing Pressmen, Local 25, served 72-hour strike notice last Thursday.

The truckers are one of seven groups bargaining for a new contract through the Vancouver Council of Joint Unions. The council is negotiating for an agreement to replace the two-year contract which expires Oct. 31.

Stinson said lockout notice is really a routine protective measure as far as the company is concerned. "We don't want to be in the position of paying all of our employees when we can't put out a newspaper because one of the unions is on strike," he added.

The company was in that position during a three-and-a-half-day strike by truckers in 1972.

By Any Other Name

OTTAWA (C) — What do you call a sirloin steak made out of soybean protein or an all-vegetable wiener?

That's a problem facing the government and delaying introduction of such products to supermarkets.

Current labelling regulations make it difficult to market total vegetable imitations of meat products, a consumer affairs department official said Tuesday.

Vegetable protein can also be used as an extender for hamburger and other meat products. These products have been on sale for some time using names like soyaburger.

established by the health pro-

But the decision on labelling the complete substitutes is out of the hands of civil servants and with the government, he said.

The government is faced with two conflicting positions on the labelling proposal. One train of thought says new names should be found for the products, as in the case of margarine, the name for butter substitute, he said.

The other position contends that a descriptive term be used such as soyasausage or soyasteak.

The basic guides for allowing vegetable substitutes on the market have already been tection branch of the health department. The extended or simulated product must have the same nutritional value as the original all-meat product.

The delay in implementing the new labelling regulations was criticized last week by Beryl Plumptre, chairman of the food prices review board.

"While the departments of agriculture, health and welfare and consumer and corporate affairs dally, many consumers, especially those with low incomes, are being deprived of the right to buy this food."

ALMOST ALL DEBTS PAID BY WEEKEND

Almost all of the provincial government's unpaid bills should be "cleared up" by the end of this week, Premier Barrett said Monday.

The premier said he has had extra staff working weekends to deal with a backlog in accounts.

A department spokesman said all vouchers received by the government before Oct. 10 have been dealt with.

The delay in payments has been blamed on a lack of keypunch operators in the finance department, and the department is "actively recruiting" to fill the need.

Bomb Blasts Car Of U.K. Minister

BIRMINGHAM, England (Reuter) — A British cabinet minister escaped an apparent assassination bid Monday night, but there was speculation that the bomb planted in his car was aimed at the wrong man.

In Northern Ireland, a high-level review of military security was under way following a car bomb explosion near an army camp Monday which killed two soldiers and wounded 32, including two civilians.

Sports Minister Denis Howell was in London at the time the bomb went off under his car outside his home in the Midlands city of Birmingham.

His wife and 10-year-old son, who were in the car at the time, were badly shaken but escaped injury. Police believe they escaped death only because the bomb dropped off the car as Mrs. Howell was backing it from the garage.

Howell has the same name and initial as David Howell, a Northern Ireland minister in the Conservative government of Edward Heath, thus was a possible target for the militant Provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army (IRA).

Meanwhile, the Provisional wing of the IRA claimed responsibility Monday night for the car bomb which blasted a canteen at Ballykinlar military camp 25 miles south of Belfast.

The bomb also damaged a nearby girls primary school where most pupils were the children of troops.

Some Life in Civic Politics

Nomination papers have been filed and 32 candidates will contest 15 vacant seats in the four core municipalities. Another 12 candidates will contest six school board seats. In our comfortable pews where democracy is taken for granted, municipal elections don't excite many people, unless a mayor is running on a popular issue that has divided the community. Yet aldermen and school trustees are the nuts and bolts of any civic administration; each has a vote on how the community develops.

One healthy sign among the 43 candidates contesting both aldermanic and school board seats is the wide range of occupations. Gone are the days when a tight coterie of lawyers, realtors and developers formed the majority of candidates which surfaced on nomination day, although it is still interesting to note how many people from these three occupations continually pop up on municipal election ballots. Part of the reason being their expertise in important areas of civic administration. But it is good to see engineers, a seamstress, a welder and a university professor in the race, to name only a few of the occupations represented.

Oak Bay has the most aggressive race with 10 candidates contesting four seats; six candidates seek four seats in Saanich, and five persons want to sit on three Esquimalt seats. Victoria's new Association of Concerned Electors will add spice to the city race which is usually dull and predictable — one reason being that council meetings are held during the day, as are many public hearings. Unless candidates have extremely tolerant employers they must shy away from running for council or school board. This often leaves Victoria in the hands of the retired or self-employed to the detriment of contributions from the rest of the community. The new city council should be more thoughtful on this issue than their predecessors. It is one of many questions city voters might ask of their 11 candidates.

Many of the same persons contesting municipal seats also are running for the capital regional board — a group that will soon determine the development of the whole area until the turn of the century. It doesn't have to be a lacklustre election. The candidates have declared themselves. It is now up to them to stir each and every one of us to vote for their particular platforms.

Mr. Lang Is Ultra Vires

Justice Minister Otto Lang has a personal vendetta against the abortion laws which his portfolio administers. In the Yukon and Northwest Territories where the federal government exercises direct control, economic and social circumstances have no bearing on abortion applications, unlike the rule applied in more southerly Canadian cities. In effect, Mr. Lang's action discriminates against unwed and poor northern women.

Even more alarming, Mr. Lang intervened to stop a federal grant to a Saskatoon women's group that offers an abortion referral service. The justice minister has a right to his own personal beliefs. It can even be said that he is obeying the letter of the abortion law, but in violating its spirit he is discriminating against some women, and adding to the confusion of Canadian abortion laws. Under 1969 amendments to the Criminal Code abortion is legal if a hospital committee rules that continuation of a pregnancy would or would be likely to endanger the life or health of a prospective mother. Yet the law doesn't require hospitals to set up abortion committees so the right of abortion as written in Canadian law is largely a matter of geography.

On a confused, inequitable law Mr. Lang is making matters worse. If he thinks current abortion laws are too lax he should lobby his caucus to formulate a new law. Failing that, he should ask for another portfolio in which he will not have to enforce laws he doesn't believe in. A minister of the crown cannot let his personal biases interfere with the administration of the law.

Police Brutality in Toronto?

TORONTO—The Toronto newspapers are currently pre-occupied with cases—very strong cases, it would appear—of police brutality. In some instances it is alleged that the metro Toronto police have used torture on suspected persons.

The Globe and Mail has published, at a one-a-day clip, detailed horrors allegedly committed on nine suspects whom it says it has investigated thoroughly and who have been found by polygraph or lie-detector tests, expertly conducted, to be telling the truth. The Globe said it will not be reporting on 20 other cases which came to its attention either because the polygraph results were inconclusive or because the reports could not otherwise be substantiated.

In one case published so far, Daniel Ethier, a 19-year-old French-Canadian, was out joy-riding with some friends last July when a police car pulled up beside him in the parking lot of a doughnut shop. The police found a dismantled pellet gun under the seat of Ethier's car and promptly took him and his three friends to the station.

Smacked Him

Ethier said he knew nothing of the pellet gun but the police didn't believe him. In the course of the next hour or so, the detectives tried to get him to say it belonged to him or one of the other youths by allegedly smacking him across the face several times, pulling him off his chair by his hair, and banging his head against a window sill four or five times.

Ethier said he also saw a detective punch one of the other youths in the stomach, causing him to collapse, after which the youth apparently gave the police a statement. Ethier was then charged and released, whereupon he went to the Queensway general hospital to have his head examined. Hospital records confirm the visit and the fact that he had a contused scalp.

The second case was even more revolting. Five police officers raided the partment of Tom Henderson, a 19-year-old postal carrier, last February and carted him, his wife and 14-year-old brother-in-law off to the station on a drug charge.

Before leaving the apartment, however, Henderson says he was taken into the bedroom by the police and then punched, choked, knocked against the wall, dragged around the room by his hair, kicked on the knee caps and grabbed by the testicles until he screamed in pain.

At the station, he said the beating continued with a certain refinement: one officer took a mechanical claw (a length of spring coil with a plunger at one end and claws at the other, used to retrieve small objects that fall into hard-to-reach places) from a briefcase and attached it first to Henderson's left and leg and then to his penis. He said it was removed from his penis not by opening the claws but by pulling it off.

After he was released on bail (and after a police officer warned him that if he talked about the way he was treated he would be drowned in the Humber river), Henderson also went to the hospital. The hospital records are consistent with the injuries he alleges.

In both of these cases, The Globe and Mail arranged for polygraph tests by John E. Reid and associates of Chicago, probably the leading experts with this instrument in North America. The firm reported that the tests indicated Ethier and Henderson were telling the truth.

POLICE
. . . accusations in Toronto

The Toronto Star has also been busy in this direction. It has reported that Delroy Tomlinson, a black Jamaican, was stopped last July for speeding. He admits to 45 or 50 miles an hour in a 30-limit zone; the police report claims 100. In any event, he says he was struck by a blow when he put his head out the window, yanked from the car, kicked on the ground, thrown handcuffed across the hood of the car and beaten about the head with fists and batons by four or five officers until he lost consciousness. He was charged with criminal negligence.

The Star also had Tomlinson take a polygraph test which concluded he was telling the truth. Four witnesses have given Tomlinson's lawyer statements supporting his account. His cousin took color pictures of Tomlinson's condition after the affair and of the blood on the car hood.

But Charles Roach, Tomlinson's experienced lawyer and a black man himself, has advised him to forget about prosecution. "Police beatings have been going on in this town for years but it's a complete waste of time taking them to court," Mr. Roach told The Star. It's an opinion which appears to be shared by a distressing number of lawyers engaged in criminal law work.

That, however, is certainly not going to be the last word on the Tomlinson case, or for that matter, any of the other cases of alleged police brutality. The political opposition has now taken up the hue and cry for a public inquiry, and the police, the Metro Board of Police Commissioners, and the provincial government are already under too much heat in this area to resist the pressure for one.

The celebrated lawyer Arthur Maloney, for example, is already conducting for the police commissioners a review of how the police department's complaints bureau operates as a result of charges of police violence in various situations over the past year. The provincial government has just been forced, as a result of press disclosures, to set up a public inquiry into chronic allegations that guards at the Don jail beat prisoners.

So far, Toronto police chief Harold Adamson and Solicitor-General George Kerr have sought escape in assurances that every charge of police brutality will be thoroughly investigated — in the regular way.

Charges Rare

That, of course, is precisely the problem. If someone alleges police mistreatment to the police complaints bureau, the charge gets investigated — by the police themselves. Such investigation is bound to be suspect. Thus when Tom Henderson complained, he was told eventually that no "claws" had been found in the lockers of the officers in question, all of whom had denied any assault, and no charges would therefore be laid. The police are going to keep claws in their lockers? They are going to admit to assaulting a prisoner?

Rarely is a police officer charged with assault of a prisoner by the Crown under the Criminal Code. If investigation supports prosecution, the charge is processed under the Ontario Police Act, in camera. The number of charges and how they were disposed of is kept secret.

Even the contents of Bylaw 18, the Police Commissioners' disciplinary regulations for governing the conduct of Metro's 4,300 policemen, are kept secret. One of the police commissioners, Winfield McKay, reacted to the recent press disclosures with the comment: "You can't run a force with Boy Scouts . . ." Mr. McKay pronounced himself satisfied that there is not "all that much brutality."

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

NDP Brainwashing?

"Whom the gods would destroy, they first make mad."

Earlier in 1974, our jovial premier, who loves to pose as Father Christmas, announced that in lieu of lowering the gasoline sales tax, he would graciously grant a rebate to B.C. automotive operators. Of course, this was only in line with actions other affluent provinces had taken or were considering. Again, of course, it was assumed that all B.C. car operators would be included in this rebate, since all were paying the gasoline sales tax.

However, a recent proclamation by S.S. (strong socialist) Strachan gives a new version of equalization by announcing that, in the face of all actuarial or common-sense reasoning, all car insurance premiums in B.C. would be equalized. This would be done in part by paying proportional rebates from gasoline sales tax funds to the presently higher insurance areas. In other words, the higher the risk area, the greater the rebate, or some areas are more equal than others.

In the Victoria area, because of relatively lower premiums resulting from relatively fewer accidents, no rebates would be paid at all.

On October 18, a quarter-page advertisement, paid with public money, appeared in the Victoria Times. This ad in effect said as follows: "Daddy Barrett greets his Victoria-area children and says all is well, and because they have been such good children they will be given a special treat by not having any increase in their car insurance rates. However he is sure they will not mind one teeny bit continuing to pay the gasoline sales tax without hope of any rebate, to help out bad people in other parts of B.C. who are presently penalizing their areas by bad driving habits."

The effrontery of this blatant attempt at brain-washing is shocking to me, and I hope, to all Victoria area drivers. The impression of truth is conveyed by telling only half the story, which of course is a method used in many authoritarian countries.

In my opinion, a strong protest is certainly warranted from every Victoria area car operator concerning this unfair and unequal treatment. So, write to the papers, talk on the hot-lines, but do protest. Are we second-class citizens or are we mice? — J. C. Uhlman, 2590 MacDonald Drive.

Appeal Replies

In reply to a letter from Mr. W. Burton, Times, Page 4, October 24, I would like to emphatically refute the writer's assertion that the United Way paid for a full page advertisement in one of the local newspapers.

While one can only speculate at what motivated Mr. Burton to make such an allegation and at the "enquiries at the source" which he said substantiate his statement, I would like to make it completely clear that the allegation is incorrect.

The United Way of Greater Victoria is extremely grateful for the full support and assistance which it receives annually from both the print and broadcast media in Greater Victoria, and we would like to take this opportunity to recognize publicly the contribution which they make, through these efforts, to the community at large.

If Mr. Burton had chosen to make his enquiries to the source, he could easily have ascertained that the audited financial statements of the United Way show that in 1973 the cost of running the entire campaign was less than five cents on each dollar raised, and that 90.2 cents of each dollar raised was, in fact, turned over to the participating member agencies.

He would also have determined that the United Way reduced its overall expenses for the year by 10 per cent, a remarkable achievement in this time of rapidly escalating costs.

It is our assertion that the annual cost of the United Appeal is far less than that of independent campaigns which take place annually in the community, and we would welcome further comparisons on this point.

I would like to thank the Times for allowing me to use this free space to refute Mr. Burton's incorrect statements. — R. V. Ostler, Chairman, United Way of Greater Victoria.

Socialism

To those who still believe that socialism is a good thing, it may be interesting to quote Fidel Castro in a recent appearance and speech on TV. He said most clearly and emphatically that the lesson to be derived from Chile was that force was absolutely necessary to fully establish socialism in a country. His own words, not mine.

Surely Utopia should be able to progress on its own merits if indeed it did have merit. Utopia which must finally be enforced with guns and loss of personal liberty is surely not what people want. Mark Twain said "If one is not a socialist at 40, he has no head." Who wants a doctrine so unacceptable that force must be used before it is fully adopted? Karl Marx very lightly skipped away from this little dilemma and left it to Lenin to grasp the nettle. Castro said now Cuba owns all the mines, factories, etc., etc., but he neglected to mention the 100 per cent mortgage Russia has of Cuba and everyone in Cuba and everything in Cuba. The usual socialist dishonesty and non-think. — M. P. Paine, 3620 Quadra Street.

MP Pay Raises

Having read in the evening paper that our members of parliament are about to ask for a raise, I felt I had to gripe a little. Mr. Chretien has told us that the government should not be the best employer and federal civil servants should not expect any big pay increases. This is a little hard to swallow when our men in Ottawa are contemplating voting themselves a hefty pay increase on a salary of $18,000 a year plus expenses. Why should MPs be an exception? Most of them would have a tough time making what they do out in the real world.

Granted, making the laws is an important job, but those who implement government policies are just as necessary. When our honorable members vote themselves a tidy pay increase to enable them to cope with the rising cost of living, they should remember that civil servants are likewise faced with ever-shrinking pay cheques. Few are so lucky as to be making $18,000 a year and rely on the tight-fisted Treasury Board for increases. After all, what's the point of paying good money to our lawmakers if the results are lost somewhere in the shuffle because of an ineffective civil service. If the civil service hopes to attract top quality people then the Treasury Board should expect to pay good salaries. The government should be the best employer in this country for in the end this is the most important job. — A Civil Servant, Victoria.

Information Not Indignation

The provincial government is continually being harassed to do something about the lack of available housing. How perfectly thoughtless of the provincial government to want to provide necessary housing at the expense of threatening the lifestyle of the Highland clanship.

In View Royal costs and an alternative method of sewage disposal are the prime complaints. The Sewerage Facilities Assistance Act, bill 88, introduced by James Lorimer, Minister of Municipal Affairs, provides for an annual grant calculated as 75 per cent of the amount by which the annual debt charges for sewer facilities exceed the product that could be produced by an annual tax levy of three mills. Granted, amenities improving our environment cost money, but what is the alternative? In areas where the malfunctioning of septic tanks is a recurring problem, the failure to make provision for the eventual sewering of the area will not prevent their installation but only increase the cost to property owners when the time comes.

Colwood and Langford residents must realize these areas will eventually have to come under a municipal form of administration. Subdivision approval is the responsibility of the Department of Highways which is equipped with neither the responsibility nor the facilities to supply the necessary planning and control along municipal lines. It is possible to have a partial municipality at first, wherein the provincial government would give aid to a municipality in its formative years. We are presently being taxed on a 10 mill levy, with no say in where the 10 mills is spent. We need sidewalks, streetlights, better shopping facilities, parks, improved transportation, controlled industrial development and adequate police protection, and the tooth fairy doesn't bring them. The cost for these basic services, necessary for a civilized life, would be offset by the increase in land values, and once an area has sewers, undeveloped land previously unsuitable for use results in greater tax revenue, which lowers proportionately individual costs.

John Goult, Oak Bay Alderman, lawyer, and recent elected director to the regional board, you are a delight to talk to. In view of the fact that Mr. Goult now wants to debate the question, "Why the Highlands over any other area, like perhaps, Saanich," I asked him if perhaps he was trying to prevent the pregnancy while the baby was being born. He retored, "No, there's just some dispute over how the baby should be delivered." I hope the following explanation from Mr. Jim Campbell will answer your question, and you won't require any "closing arguments".

Mr. Jim Campbell, regional board chairman, responds to Mr. Goult's query with the following comments: "After looking at available land within a reasonable distance to Victoria, the Highlands has been chosen to carry a modest part of the population growth over 25 years. Reasons are, the cost of land; close proximity to Victoria, the Greater Victoria District main water supply, Albert Head sewer outfall; the nature of the land itself—suitable for no other productive use and is particularly well adapted to residential service."

Mr. Campbell explained that this is a potential urban area to be developed when economics justify it, whether it be two years or 25 years from now. It is not a positive commitment, but a planning option opened under the regional plan.

Certain regional board members have consistently advocated the use of public money to purchase land in the Highlands. How do they justify this expenditure to the regions now they've changed their minds?

In conclusion, in future it would be refreshing to read comments from interested citizens based on information, not indignation. — Patricia Goertzen, Colwood.

60 YEARS AGO

From the Times of October 29, 1914.

To few men it is given to play so many varied and interesting parts on the stage of life as have fallen to the lot of John Grant, Victoria pioneer and Yukon miner, who arrived in the city last night for a short stay. Time was when the name of John Grant was one to conjure with in Victoria, when it was known throughout British Columbia as the cognomen of one of the builders of the province. It was 14 years ago when the former mayor of Victoria and the city's representative in the legislature last trod Yates Street. In an interview he commented on "the extraordinary number and elegance of large buildings — city blocks I think you call them. Another thing is the fine surface and breadth of the streets."

They Talk (In Secret) On Our Fate

By MARK GAYN

GENEVA — Once each week, a small fleet of limousines brings a band of solemn Russians to the headquarters of one of the U.S. missions here. The building, done in the ugly-functional style favored by the Swiss, is not yet complete, and the workers are still hammering and fitting under the eyes of U.S. Marine guards.

The elevator takes the Russians to the sixth floor, where a similar band of Americans is waiting for them. The men take their seats, and then either the chief Soviet delegate, the stiff and correct deputy foreign minister Vladimir Semyonov, or his U.S. counterpart, Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson, makes a statement.

On another day of the same week, the process is reversed, and a fleet of cars takes the Americans to the Soviet mission. The electronically controlled gates swing open, and the cars roll into the closely guarded grounds.

What the two delegations are about, of course, is SALT, or Strategic Arms Limitation Talks — and no proceedings in this secretive Swiss town are more secret.

Indeed, the Russians carry the secrecy to the point where, rather than disclose their own names for the wide range of their missiles, they deliberately use the American terminology. The Russians no doubt have a name for one of their gigantic missiles, 10 times the size of the U.S. Minuteman, but they blithely refer to it by its American monicker, SS (or surface to surface) 9.

Lest they somehow betray a secret, the delegates will only rarely see a journalist. An American participant in another conference here reports being approached by his Soviet colleague at a cocktail party. The Russian had a question: "What do you hear about the progress at SALT? Our delegation tells us virtually nothing."

The talks are reasonably relaxed. Some of the delegates have been at it for five years, and they know each other's families, foibles, ailments and, worst of all, jokes. Semyonov, one of the veterans, does not relax easily. But even he will allow himself a chuckle at a witticism by Johnson, a top-drawer career diplomat who conceals his toughness as a negotiator beneath a sense of humor.

But the occasional levity does not alter the deadly nature of these talks. These men deal with awesome weapons already in being, or still on the drawing boards but already casting a nuclear shadow on men's lives 10 and 20 years hence.

Agreements carpentered here may also save the two super-powers astronomical amounts of money — or weight them down with debt for years to come. The new family of king-sized missiles on which the Russians are working will cost them $40 billion to $50 billion in the next few years. On the other hand, the U.S. program to develop the 20,000-ton Trident submarine and the fast B-1 bomber may cost in excess of $30 billion.

SALT, of course, does not make policy. The basic decisions on whether to limit the arms, and in what proportions, are made by the powerful men at the White House and the Kremlin. But once the decisions are made, it is these men here — all top-ranking experts in foreign affairs, defence, military strategy and nuclear weaponry — who go to work on the essential detail. Their task is to work out the ratios, to provide safeguards, to find the loopholes one side or the other has carefully planted in the texts.

Sometimes the talks lapse into near-absurdity. In July, 1970, the Russians staggered the Americans with the proposal to join hands in preventing provocative action by another nuclear state — left nameless but obviously China — or punishing it if it were too late to stop it. The Americans hastily turned that one down.

On another occasion, the Soviets proposed that in working out the balance between the super-powers, the U.S. strength include not only the NATO but also the Chinese nuclear arsenal. But the Russians have not had a monopoly on folly. The Americans have also floated some silly ones.

But for all the red herrings and often mind-numbing talk, SALT has not been wholly in vain. The talks began in Helsinki in November, 1969, and by 1972 yielded two agreements, at least one of which was memorable.

This was the pact under which the two super-powers agreed to limit their ABMs, the anti-ballistic fissiles supposed to shoot down incoming rockets.

It took the Russians a lot of negotiating to persuade the Americans to limit the ABM systems to two for each country. What worried the Soviet strategists was the thought that if the Americans perfected their ABMs, they would then be immune to Soviet missiles and would thus be able to devastate the Soviet Union at will. The nuclear deterrent deters only so long as both sides can wipe each other out.

The second agreement, reached in May, 1972, was to run for five years. Under it, the two sides agreed not to increase the number of their missiles, but were given the right to decide how many were to be on land and how many on submarines.

The U.S. negotiators, currently under heavy attack by hawks in Washington, argue that this agreement had no effect on the Americans, since they had no plans to change their ratios. But the Russians, the argument runs, were building up their submarine force at a great pace, and could soon outnumber America's 41 subs. Thus, the Americans agreed that the Russians could build 62 submarines with 950 missiles by 1977 — all on the strength of an intelligence estimate that the Russians could really do much better than that, and it was useful to put a low ceiling on their construction.

So far so good. But in November, 1972, came SALT II, and the talks soon got mired in mistrust. One reason for it was something called MIRV, which was science gone wild. These were the large missiles with four, six or even 10 nuclear warheads, which could spread out to widely separated targets.

Once again, the American scientists were ahead of the Russians. One estimate is that the United States could have 10,000 of these warheads by 1980, while the Soviets are only now beginning to perfect them. The Russians now refuse to limit their arms until they have caught up with the Americans. Just as obviously, the latter will not give up their advantage.

Last June, president Richard Nixon journeyed to Moscow for yet another chit-chat with party leader Leonid Brezhnev. It turned out to be an 18-karat fiasco. The two men could strike no new ground on the MIRVs. The best they could agree on was to try to extend the interim agreement for another 10 years.

This is what the two delegations here are discussing now in such great secrecy. In fact, they are deadlocked. They keep repeating the same weary formulas — and keeping their eyes on the same tireless and imaginative Henry Kissinger.

It will not be easy to get an agreement. Kissinger does not have fervent support in Washington. He himself noted last summer that both sides have to convince their military establishments of the benefits of restraint, and this is not a thought that comes naturally to military people on either side. If the generals can be reassured, and if the winds of detente still blow fresh and strong, the two delegations here soon may once again have their hands full.

Soviet super-missile carries an American name

Big Business and the New Farm Frontier

By DAN MORGAN

Japanese, Italian and American investors are risking millions of dollars in a search for a new kind of hidden treasure in the lonely forests and swampy peat bogs of the North Carolina coastal plain this year.

The treasure is land on which to grow the crops and raise the livestock the nation and the world badly need to make food cheaper and more plentiful.

Since the start of the year, the entrepreneurs have purchased a total of 424,500 acres (600 square miles) of North Carolina land. They have cleared away trees, leveled mile-square fields, drained the oozing soil and planted their first corn and soybeans.

The opening of this new farming frontier meets obvious economic needs and flows from broader economic trends.

Because the new farmland is being carved out of some of the country's most precious wilderness and wetlands, though, officials and private citizens are worried that the entrepreneurial quest for more food could have adverse effects on the environment for years to come.

Chiefly, they are worried that the runoff of fertilizer and pesticides into the inland water surrounding these superfarms could poison shellfish or unleash nitrogen, phosphate and potash nutrients that would make river algae bloom, clogging waterways.

They are also asking what effect the clearing operations would have on rare species of eagles and alligators, and wondering if the mechanized farming could even set the peat on fire and burn up acres of valuable land down to a depth of six feet.

Both the developers and the state officials charged with monitoring the activity admit they have difficult problems to solve and that they may be writing a new chapter in the nation's efforts to balance economic needs against the requirements of an acceptable environment.

Economists at the Department of Agriculture estimate that only 70 per cent of potential U.S. cropland is being cultivated. Yet, federal and state laws to protect the environment have been overwhelmingly directed at industry, not agriculture. Thus, federal officials familiar with the coastal developments concede that their authority may be limited in regulating them, and add, "This is sort of a gray area."

The new attraction of the North Carolina coast to investors relates to changing economic forces. The soaring prices of food commodities last year suddenly made the huge investment needed to open new land seem worthwhile. Meanwhile, foreign capitalists increasingly see the U.S. economy as more stable and less inflation-stricken than their own.

Those factors, plus a realization that North Carolina soil was rich enough "to grow carrots a foot-and-a-half long," spurred the diverse interest a year ago. The climate and soil are so ideal that it is possible to "double crop": to plant soybeans after winter wheat is harvested in late spring.

The three major holdings are those of the Ferruzzi family of Ravenna, Italy, with 45,000 acres; the Shima-American Corp. of Elmhurst, Ill., with 7,500 acres; and Malcolm P. McLean, an impulsive, brilliant New Yorker who made a fortune in the trucking industry before withdrawing recently.

McLean's 327,000-acre parcel may be the second-largest plantation in the United States. The Shima-American Corp. land adjoins McLean's huge First Colony Farms, south of Albermarle Sound and west of Roanoke Island. The Feruzzi land is farther south, on the Carteret Peninsula, west of the southern tip of the Outer Banks. All the parcels were put together by a Washington, N.C., real estate firm, the Rich Co., from holdings of small farmers, and big timber and agricultural companies which had been operating there.

"It was a diversification move for us," says Zoppelt, an American. "We feel the United States is a good place to put money."

Also, he notes, farmland in Illinois is more expensive and not as productive as it is in North Carolina. Although Shima-American is not considering exporting the produce at this time, Zoppelt says that if there is a surplus of U.S. farm commodities sometime in the future, "We have our sales representatives in Japan already and we'd have another market." The parent company in Japan, Shima, makes ball bearings and other industrial items.

Both the Italian and Japanese ambitions are dwarfed by those of McLean's First Colony Farms. Cy Rich Jr., who is supervising the operations, say that when all potential agricultural land is cleared the investment will total $200 million.

When Rich took over, only 17,000 acres were cleared. Next spring, 40,000 acres will be ready to plant. First Colony's long-range plans include a food-processing operation, huge cattle and hog-raising operations, and possibly a grain terminal connected to the Alligator River.

The unprecedented scope of the operations is summed up by a farm manager, William H. Smart, as he points at miles of black earth from which the debris of thousands of years of juniper growth has been cleared into hundreds of piles: "I can take you as far as you can see, and then take you as far again, and we'd still be on First Colony."

Rich recognizes the potential problems of such a development. "We have to keep a staff of attorneys and Ph.Ds working full time to keep us from stepping across the line," he says. At the urging of the North Carolina Natural and Economic Resources Department, First Colony is monitoring water in drainage ditches to detect any deterioration in quality. It has left belts of trees as refuges for game and buffers against wind erosion. It has also commissioned a study by North Carolina State University specialists on the long-range social, economic and environmental impact.

Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham says the scope of the operations makes some smaller farmers "apprehensive." They are concerned that "big corporate structures" will commandeer most of the fertilizer and manpower.

Goldbugs on the March

By CHARLES FOLEY

Now that Gerald Ford has pledged himself to make the war on inflation his first priortiy, serious attention is being given to the mischief being caused by that voracious breed of economic termite known in the U.S. as the "Goldbug".

The gloom-'n'-doom prophets — headed by two expatriate Harrys, Browne and Shultz — are competing avidly for the public ear. Their presage of a Wall Street crash has widened to include the money markets of Europe and the Far East — their warnings of civil strife now mutter darkly of military take-overs, the end of civilization as we know it.

The difference is that for the first time people are listening: people who, a few months ago, took the doomsday pundits as a joke. "If the folks start to act as well," warned a Bank of America vice-president the other day, "look out. They'll create the very monster they're being taught to fear."

"These self-proclaimed oracles," he went on, "are shouting down objective experts. Nobody suggests the future looks rosy, but with a change of command in Washington we can hope for restraint on spending, wages and prices, a slowing down of the spiral. If the public is made to lose faith in the whole system then the thing comes unglued. Alarmist prophecies can be self-fulfilling if they take hold."

The Goldbug gospel is familiar enough — get into gold and Swiss banks, store enough food for at least a year, find a hideaway. James Dines, dean of Goldbugs, has now trumped rivals by advancing "the coming collapse" to within six months. "In fact," he genially asserts, "it's already begun." Dines' newsletter advises subscribers to export enough pelf to support themselves for five years outside the United States, perhaps on some Pacific atoll. The U.S. has no law to control funds going abroad.

Time was when such chimeras were confined to the super-rich, who built atom-bomb shelters behind the conservatory. Their gullibility enriched certain $1,000-an-hour Wall Street consultants and began the flow of funk-money to Switzerland and Austria. Gold seminars for doctors, lawyers, stockbrokers, burgeoned into Hilton-sized conventions.

Today, these modern Cassandras are cashing in wholesale with publicity on panel shows and in commercial spots on television, and Harry Browne, 41, is soothsayer supreme. His beaded, pudgily engaging features have become familiar to some 50 million American viewers who, for "just $49.50" can also buy his taped doctrines on "How to Protect Yourself and Those You Love" plus books, pamphlets and paperbacks galore.

It is not surprising to find that Browne (a Californian, like Shultz) is no prophet in his own territory. He is a junior college dropout who once held a post with the John Birch Society and — in line with its distrust of U.S. government "paper" — plunged on silver margins in 1967, the year before the bust. Ending up $15,000 in debt, he wrote How to Profit from the Coming Devaluation in 1970. Two more books followed this triumph (Nixon devalued the dollar in 1971), all on the same theme, and a fourth is in the works.

From his new $200,000 home in the hills overlooking Vancouver, Browne says now that while he may not always be right, he's always certain. Nobody, he admits, was more surprised than himself when the dollar was devalued so soon after his prediction. Also he erroneously tipped a stockmarket crash to trigger off the depression. Complaints from readers who bought gold at $225 an ounce last February and now find it down to $153 are airily dismissed.

"I predict for the long run," says Browne, "and in the long run it may be $400, $1,000, who knows?" Clearly not Browne, who is structuring his new book to ensure credibility for as long as possible. "The biggest problem in predicting events is to put a time scale on them." The rest is easy: bankruptcy, blood in the streets and 20 ways to make yourself a pile while it is happening.

It is the appearance of the "small guys" in the flight capital picture which is the most disturbing element of all. If the "buck" bounces up, as it well may, they lose their shirts in the smart money game. If the dollar sinks, it will be because they have helped to drain the country of funds so badly needed now by industry — which makes the jobs they want to keep.

Misty Miss Christie Lovely to Look At

By AUDREY JOHNSON
Times Staff

Doing a show around the lively humor and melodic brightness of Noel Coward and Cole Porter is a delightful idea and doesn't have to prove a thing. Its sheer entertainment potential is all it needs.

But the show at the Royal Theatre until Wednesday does prove something.

It proves beyond any question that Dinah Christie is not only a major Canadian talent, but the equal in musical revue, of most imported stars.

Christie is lovely to look at and has the kind of animation that bubbles up from its source without pumping; she possesses that elusive quality of empathy — instant contact with the audience. And she has a hauntingly lovely voice.

In fact she has two voices. In its upper levels it is a pure lyrical soprano; then quite suddenly it will dip to a sexy alto resonance and the smoky color of a torch singer.

In a two-person revue of this kind, discussion should concentrate on the team effect. But for me the team effect is not totally satisfactory because of lack of balance.

But when over-inflated to meet the demands of a two-person revue type show and a partner of Christie's ability, its quality becomes thin and at times strained.

First part of the show is devoted to Coward with Dinah superb in Mad About the Boy, Matelot, and Nina. Her performance is full of style and charm.

Kneebone, on the other hand, does not recreate Coward but is Kneebone doing Coward as Kneebone. There is a lack of the brittle elegance that is vintage Coward. I've Been to a Marvellous Party, a la Kneebone, for example, may be funny but it is a caricature.

But while Dinah is at her shining best in the Coward section, Kneebone comes off better with the Cole Porter numbers, especially in the whimsical solos, Pets and The Tale of an Oyster.

A well-balanced, pleasing ensemble of piano, string bass and percussion accompanies the performers. On the whole the Bastion Theatre-sponsored show is pleasant entertainment that belongs in the more intimate atmosphere of a cabaret or a McPherson Playhouse.

Echoes of Folk Festivals

By SALLY BRYER

It's a long way from Newport, Rhode Island, to Victoria, but Leon Bibb made it easy all the way during his one-night stand at the McPherson Sunday.

Bibb opened his show with a few numbers he'd sung at the now legendary Newport Folk Festival in 1959. That event marked the start of a professional career that brought him west across the U.S. and up to Vancouver where he now lives.

The Kentucky-born showman had the audience tuned to him from the moment he strolled onto the stage singing Take This Hammer, his unaccompanied voice seeming to gather up the entire theatre.

Anyone who has seen Bibb perform on stage or television would be well-prepared for his ability to project a wide range of emotion with fine acting and sense of timing, but the magnitude of his voice may have come as a surprise to many.

Bibb opened and closed the evening with folk songs sung in traditional style without microphone. Then the range moved from the lighthearted 1970 hit The Me Nobody Knows to Billy Holiday's lyric God Bless the Child.

He rounded off the first half of the evening putting out the real feelings of a person on a chain gang, with 500 Miles Away from Home. After that it was back to Canada and The Robert Delf Quartet brought us closer with Lightfoot's Pussy Willows, Cat-Tails.

The quartet from Burnaby was an excellent low-key backing for Bibb and it was surprising to learn that this was their first performance with him. They moved casually from jazz to blues with piano, drums, bass, acoustic and electric guitars, changing instruments with ease. There were surprises such as the satire of Little Boxes and the gentle sadness of Clowns from A Little Night Music.

The entire audience rose excitedly after If We Only Had Love from Jacques Brel Is Alive and Well which was such a great hit here last year.

From that charged point Leon Bibb let the audience down gently with Oh Shenandoah and the evening was over. It was only a pity that the performance was on a Sunday night and not very well publicized.

The turnout was poor.

Hot Rock Fire Cause

A fire believed started by a hot rock caused $4,000 damage to a Langford house Saturday.

A spokesman for the Langford fire department said the fire at 2571 Rainville was probably started when a piece of rock heated with a propane torch by house owner Donald Anderson landed in a mattress. Anderson was heating the rocks so they could be broken.

Anderson left to return the torch to a rental company and when he returned about an hour later, at 4 p.m., firemen had arrived.

The fire was under control within minutes, the spokesman said. Damage was confined to the basement area.

Smallwood Needn't Fret About Any Senate Offer

OTTAWA — Joey Smallwood need not worry about possible attempts to corral him into the Senate because all six allocated to Newfoundland are occupied. After his failure to regain leadership of the Newfoundland Liberal party during the weekend, Smallwood said he would reject an appointment to the Senate.

"I wouldn't be found dead in the Senate, not with some of the people who are there, especially the ones from Newfoundland," he said.

BELFAST — One of Northern Ireland's best-known peace workers, Rev. Joseph Parker, is leaving Ulster to start afresh in British Columbia.

"I am leaving my country and my church because I have been completely ostracised," he said.

Parker resigned as chaplain of the Missions to Seamen in Belfast several months ago.

He is due to take up an appointment as senior chaplain of the Missions to Seamen in Vancouver and New Westminster in the new year.

JERUSALEM — Oskar Schingler, a German honored by Israel for saving 1,200 Jews from the Nazis, was buried in Jerusalem Monday as requested in his will. Schingler visited Israel 17 times, always arriving May 8, the anniversary of Nazi Germany's defeat. He died recently in Hamburg.

MELBOURNE, Australia — Prince Charles says waving to crowds can get to a person after awhile. He told a news conference that "during my investiture I met many people and was waving much of the time. The next day I woke up to find I was waving in bed."

HAMILTON — Premier William Davis of Ontario is included in a list of 80 person receiving awards for heroism and lifesaving announced Monday by the Royal Canadian Humane Association. Last July, the premier, his son Neil and brother-in-law William Mackay helped rescue two men stranded on a reef in Georgian Bay after high winds capsized their boat. Neil Davis was awarded a testimonial parchment for his major role in the rescue, while his father and uncle received certificates of merit.

TORONTO — Esther Jungreis brought Jewish evangelism to the Beth Sholom Synagogue. The 600 persons who attended sat quietly while Mrs. Jungreis, sometimes called Judaism's female Billy Graham, strove to "reawaken a slumbering people who have amnesia when it comes to their history," then gave her a standing ovation.

Mrs. Jungreis, 38, is a Rebbetzin, or rabbi's wife, married to an Orthodox rabbi in a plush section of Long Island, N.Y. They have four children.

But she told the audience she has no love for Jews living in the "Cadillac culture of our gilded ghettos." She believes many young Jews are "starving for spiritual meaning and fulfillment," seeking answers in drugs, mysticism and the heritage of others, she said.

CANBERRA — Science Minister Bill Morrison will investigate a suggestion that Australian beef be put on ice in the Antarctic unless world markets improve. Opposition member Peter Nixon said in Parliament that Mawson scientific bas in the Antarctic is "the cheapest deep freeze of all" for Australia.

CHICAGO — A second man has been arrested in connection with the largest cash theft in the United States FBI officials say.

FBI agent John Housley said Monday night that Peter Gushi, 47, of Oak Lawn, Ill., was charged with bank larceny, bank burglary and the illegal use of explosive devices in connection with the haul of an estimated $4.3 million from a vault of the Armored Express Corp. of Chicago, Oct. 20.

Raspberries' Wally Bryson (lead guitar) and Scott McCarl (bass) peeked into the hall of the Hollywood Holiday Inn to see what the ruckus was. Samuel Washington Woodbury, noisemaker, burst into their room with his pants down, punched two roadies, and started throwing "everything but the bed and chairs" (according to road manager and victim Russell Pitrone) out of the 20th storey window, including a TV set that had been bolted into concrete.

Police charged Woodbury with assault with a deadly weapon (a lamp), but no one was seriously injured. A friend of the group said, "He started asking for his mother as soon as the cops got there."

A $6 million suit was filed against Crosby, Stills, Nash and Young by promoters of the Ontario Speedway festival that never came off this summer. The event had been rescheduled from Aug. 3 to Sept. 21 to accommodate headlining CSNY, but the group cancelled altogether on Aug. 28. Promoters Shelly Finkel and Jim Koplik claim their pulling out killed the show: they want $500,000 in advance promotion losses, and compensation for damage to their reputation, loss of credibility and the possible loss of their three-year contract with the speedway.

CSNY had said that internal problems forced them to cancel the appearance: Their representatives were unreachable for comment on the lawsuit.

The troupe of Indian musicians accompaning George Harrison on tour are unaccustomed to eating the fare offered by Howard Johnson's and other roadstop diners; so special chefs and a truck converted into a kitchen will accompany, the more than 20 foreign artists on the tour, preparing food for them just like a home.

John Fogerty is on the verge of leaving Fantasy Records to sign with David Geffen and Asylum Records, with most major points of negotiation out of the way. One insider claims that Geffen and Fogerty will put up a half-million dollars each to buy back Fogerty's contract from Fantasy, which he still owes four albums. Fogerty was the driving force behind Creedence Clearwater Revival (singing, arranging, producing and writing virtually all their material), and has been a main support of Fantasy, with CCR record sales amounting to over $100 million. Fogerty became disgrunted after his first single in his own name, Coming Down the Road, failed to sell, and told the company last winter that he would provide them no new material. Fantasy sources claim nothing had changed in their treatment of Fogerty or his products, and they didn't feel they had done anything to disappoint him.

Toronto Remains Sharply Higher

Golds, however, lost much of the strong gains recorded Monday. The gold index was off as was the base metals index.

Volume by 2 p.m. was 1.12 million shares, down from 1.36 million at the same time Mon

45 Years Ago Today Wall St. Crash Began

NEW YORK (AP) — Wall Street today marks its gloomiest anniversary, 45 years after the stock market began its dizziest fall in history on Oct. 28-29, 1929.

But even with numerous current troubles, including inflation, tight money and a slumping economy, traders can take heart that the bear market of 1974 and the Great Crash of 1929 are as different as night and day, many anslysts agree.

For one thing, speculators in the '20s had free rein, untouched by any sort of governmental regulation. Since 1933, the Federal Reserve and the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) have acted to keep the speculator in bounds, and usually have protected traders from outright market fraud.

The market also enjoys a degree of stability now compared with 1929 just from sheer size. There were about 1.5 million people in the market in 1929. Now there are about 30 million. If nothing else, panic would have further to spread in 1974.

Another difference, though less comforting, is how fast and far stocks fell in 1929 as against 1973-74. The crash of '29 was sudden, almost totally unexpected and horribly severe. In only two weeks, from Oct. 28 to Nov. 13, the Dow Jones industrial average shrank by 50.6 per cent, to 198.69.

On Oct. 28, 1929, traders watched the unautomated ticker struggle to keep up with a 12-million share turnover, then unheard of. The Dow fell a stillunsurpassed 38.33 points.

The next day, even worse in terms of the spreading panic and the volume figure—a staggering 16 million—the Dow Jones slid another 30.57.

"The market crashed at a time when almost everyone was bullish," recalls analyst Lucien Hooper. "It just came out of the blue."

The bear market of 1973-74 also has fallen about 50 per cent: The Dow, from a high of 1,051 on Jan. 11, 1973, has been as low as 584, on Oct. 4, 1974. The paper value of listed New York Stock Exchange issues has gone to about $450 billion now from $871.54 billion.

The 50-per-cent drop the market has suffered since 1973 has taken almost two years. The Great Crash did the same thing in two weeks.

And the autumn crash in 1929 was only the beginning. By July 8, 1932, the value of Big Board stocks had gone to $15.6 billion from a high of $87 billion Sept. 3, 11929. And the Dow, which stood at 381.17 before the Great Crash, sank to 41.22 in 1932.

That meant that in 1929, unlike now, drops of 50 to 60 points in an individual stock were common. Issues worth hundreds of dollars in the 1920s bull market were worth pennies in 1932.

TOYOTA OPENS QUEBEC HQ

MONTREAL (CP) — CMI-Toyota opened its $2-million Quebec regional headquarters Monday, completing the fifth and last link in a country-wide program started four years ago.

The building, in nearby Boucherville, will serve as warehouse for $4.5 million worth of parts and house administrative offices and a service training program.

Guy Saint-Pierre, Quebec industry minister, attended opening ceremonies and urged the Tokyo-based company to consider installing an assembly plant in the province.

The headquarters will employ 53 workers.

The company also has offices and depots in Richmond, B.C., Calgary, Scarborough, Ont., and Dartmouth, N.S.

Tokyo Stock Slide Linked To 'Bungei Shunju Shock'

TOKYO (Reuter) — The Tokyo stock market continued its steep downward slide Monday amid political unrest and a deepening recession in the Japanese economy.

Dealers are calling the current decline the "Bungei Shunju shock" after the magazine which listed in an article what it said were Premier Kakuei Tanaka's private and political financial dealings.

The article has set off shock waves in Japan and is threatening the political future of the premier, who left today on a 12-day tour of New Zealand, Australia and Burma.

Another reason for depression on the stock market today was the collapse of the Yamato woollen textile manufacturing company, a medium-sized firm.

Its collapse — it has not yet been declared bankrupt but is seeking court permission to reconstruct itself under a corporation-rehabilitation law — is a potent indicator of the seriousness of the current slump in the textile industry and also the over-all recession afflicting the country.

Losses on the stock market were spread over a wide front, with the market average falling 99.96 to close at 3,403.61.

The U.S. dollar continued to advance on the Tokyo foreign exchange market, rising to the 300-yen mark for the first time in six weeks as Japanese banks continued purchases to cover the country's oil bills.

The Bank of Japan sold an estimated $80 million out of official reserves to hold down the level of the dollar, which closed at 299.96 yen after reaching 300.05 yen.

The political turmoil in the country has led to speculation that Tanaka might be considering his resignation before the end of the year.

business

Placer Dev.

Placer Development Ltd. has reported consolidated net earnings for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1974, of $40,470,000 or $3.37 a share, including extraordinary items of $3,092,000 or 26 cents a share.

This compares with earnings of $47,171,000 or $3.93 a share, including extraordinary items of $10,333,000 or 86 cents a share for the same period of 1973.

T. H. McClelland, president and chief executive officer of the company, said reduced earnings were the result of lower production from the Gibraltar mine and increased federal and provincial income and mining taxes. This was due in part to the expiration of Gibraltar's income tax exempt period at the end of 1973, he said.

McClelland said a significant increase in earnings of associated companies compensated for the problems with Gibraltar, and the effect of B.C. government royalties was lessened by lower copper prices.

Balco Ind.

Balco Industries Ltd. has announced a net loss of $19,000 or two cents a share, for the ninth-month period to Aug. 31 has forced cancellation of the November dividend payment.

President Dave Balison said this year's sales were more than $11 million, but increased costs destroyed the income. Net income for the same period last year was $1,479,000 and the shares earned a dividend of $1.47.

A major increase in wage costs from a contract settlement with the International Woodworkers of America was partly responsible, said the company.

Company directors said regular dividends would resume when conditions permit.

Hudson Bay Oil, Gas

Hudson Bay Oil and Gas Co. Ltd. reports net earnings of $46 million or $2.43 per share for the first three quarters of 1974.

The profit increased from $27.2 million or $1.43 per share in 1973.

Third quarter net earnings were $17 6 million or 93 cents per share compared with $10.4 million or 55 cents per share a year ago.

Gross reveunes totalled $61.8 million for the third quarter, up $26.4 million over the year before, but more than half of the increase was absorbed by increased government royalty payments, said the company.

Production of crude oil was down slightly over 1973 but production of natural gas increased by four per cent to an average of 198.9 million cubic feet per day, said the company.

Revenues Up

CARACAS (AFP) — Revenues of oil companies operating in Venezuela trebled in the first half of this year compared with the same period last year, the ministry of mines and oil reported Sunday. A communique said the gross revenues of the companies totalled $5,280 billion from Jan. 1 to June 30, compared with $1,750 billion in the first half of last year.

"Our new technique opened up a promising market. To finance the venture we chose RoyNat—they've been helping us grow for many years."

RÉAL DÉSOURDY, President
Les Entreprises Désourdy Inc.
Saint-Jean, Québec

"Our tests proved that we had developed a highly efficient production line for factory-built homes. And at our selling price, there was a strong market potential. But we needed financing for land, equipment, and enlargement of our plant. And of course we had to be concerned about working capital."

"It was only natural that we go first to RoyNat. We had used their funds six times in ten years, for such things as consolidating our business interests, modernizing equipment, and for the acquisition of another firm. On several occasions RoyNat had also leased equipment to us, which helped us conserve working capital when we needed it most."

"RoyNat has always responded quickly to our needs, and this housing venture was certainly no exception. Their representative wasted no time in getting approval for the financing we needed."

"Within a very short time, our sales have quadrupled, and RoyNat has contributed a great deal to that success. Their people are specialists and very knowledgeable."

Ali Gets $1.35 Million 'Load of Crumbs'

Muscular George Foreman responds to cheers

KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) — Muhammad Ali's $5 million purse from tonight's world heavyweight boxing championship means net income of $1.35 million for the challenger after all the hangers-on, from the U.S. Internal Revenue Service (IRS) to his bodyguards, are paid off.

George Foreman's $5 million has been broken down five or six times by the champion's accountants, but he said they have not given him a final formula for what his income will be.

The fighters may come out of this fight better than most others. The promoters' dreams of huge profits appear gone, although they should make a substantial profit.

Ali talked about his money in an interview as some of the figures around what is being billed as the richest fight in history firmed up. Projected receipts were running below early estimates.

Of his $5 million, Ali said half will be eaten up by taxes. Expenses will come to $500,000 and his manager's share lowers the total he can bank to $1.35 million.

"That's a load of crumbs," he said.

"I have too many things to do. I'd be broke if I had $10 million a day. Too many important things to do."

The fighters' shares seem substantial now against the real estimates of what the fight, once described as a $50-million extravaganza, will gross.

The Zaire government consulted Peat, Marwick and Mitchell, one of the largest accounting firms in the United States, to make a projection and an audit on the closed circuit television receipts.

An authoritative source with access to the report said the accountants said if the fight brings $15 or $16 million in the United States the promoters should be happy They expect $2.5 million in additional revenue outside the United States.

According to the informant, the break-even point for the partners in the promotion—the Zaire government, Video Techniques and the Hemdale Leisure Corp. of London—is $12.1 million. This would mean a maximum profit of about $6 million.

The IRS, apparently under some pressure from the state department, has agreed to exempt from taxes the 43-per-cent share of the U.S. profits belonging to the Zaire government. This came after the government acknowledged that it was Risnalia Investment Co., the Swiss based firm, that put up the fighters' letters of credit.

There were reports here of some resistance within the IRS to grant the tax exemption which seemed a bit like a U.S taxpayers' subsidy to a prize fight in Africa.

But it eventually was agreed that since governments do not tax other governments, Zaire would go free, while Hemdale's 38 per cent and Video Techniques' 19 per cent would be subject to normal U.S. corporation taxes.

Zaire was far from breaking even on the fight that was supposed to put it on the map in a burst of favorable publicity. The informant, who is close to the government, said Zaire's expenses outside the promotion partnership now come to $12.5 million, including capital improvements such as communications systems, a rebuilt stadium and the purchase of 100 buses.

The financial situation will remain confusing after the fight.

John Daly, Hemdale's managing director, said: "If there were a three-month rematch clause in the contract, I doubt anybody could ever fulfil it. It will probably take six months to get the money sorted out after the fight."

Taunts Roll Off Foreman

KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) — Muhammad Ali continued his taunting tirades and George Foreman remained sombre as the two whiled away the hours leading to their predawn battle Wednesday for the heavyweight boxing championship of the world.

With bongo drums beating and naïve dancers sashaying through the boulevards, tension began building in this sultry capital where two black Americans have come to pay homage to their ancestors and battle 15 rounds or less for the ring's richest prize.

Both Foreman, the titleholder, and Ali, a former champion who had the crown taken from him because he resisted the U.S. military draft, have made much of their odyssey to the land of their forefathers. But each also is guaranteed a $5 million purse.

As time for the opening bell approached — 4 a.m. local time today — Foreman held firm as the favorite despite escalating Ali sentiment. The latest odds quoted from Las Vegas were 14-5, in London 11-5.

The internaternational press corps has swung to Ali by a small majority. Ali has been impressive in workouts and, at 216½ pounds, he looks every inch the skilled meticulous assassin who stopped the awesome Sonny Liston in 1964 and 1965.

Foreman's advantage appears to be his age — 25 compared to Ali's 32 — and his brute strength. He has demolished every opponent he has faced in the last two years, none going more than two rounds. His victims have included such fighters as Joe Frazier and Ken Norton, who scored victories over Ali.

Foreman is unbeaten in 40 bouts, 37 of them won by knockouts. Ali has had 46 fights losing two.

Zairians are expected to fill most, if not all, of the 62,889 seats in the 20th of May soccer stadium, paying between $250 for the choice ringside chairs to $10 in the upper reaches.

Since President Mobotu Sese Seko and his government have paid $1.4 million as a guarantee of the live gate, the portals may be thrown open if some tickets are unsold for the first heavyweight bout in this part of the world.

There will be two curtain-raising bouts: between American heavyweights Henry Clark and Roy Williams — sparring partners of Foreman, and Ali respectively — and a welterweight contest between Zaire's champion Tshinza Mbayi and Antoine Oke, champion of Dahomey.

Arbour Is 'Believer'

By The Canadian Press

There are skeptics who still doubt that New York Islanders "are for real" this National Hockey League season, despite six victories and a tie in eight games—a record surpassed only by Los Angeles Kings, who have played two more games.

Those doubters look beyond Monday night's 10-1 rout of the California Golden Seals to a five-games-in-eight-nights stretch which starts Wednesday night and will have the third-year New Yorkers playing against New York Rangers, Philadelphia Flyers twice, Boston Bruins and Atlanta Flames.

Says Arbour: "All we gotta do is keep on working the way we have been and we'll come out all right."

The Islanders finished last in their division their previous two years, winning just 31 of 156 games. Over two years they allowed 594 goals while scoring just 352.

The Golden Seals have played seven of their first 11 games on the road, resulting in six losses and a tie. They have given up 52 goals—far worse than the defensive record of the expansion Kansas City Scouts and Washington Capitals. And Monday night's bombardment forced coach Marshall Johnston to lift starting goaltender Gary Simmons in favor of Gilles Meloche.

With an eight-goal lead at the time, Arbour took the opportunity to give backup netminder Glenn Resch some work. Billy Smith had started the game and lost a shutout on Bob Stewart's shot at 13:42 of the middle period.

Bob Berry and Don Kozak scored for Los Angeles, while Rogatien Vachon stopped 23 shots in recording his 23rd career shutout.

Four of five NHL games scheduled for tonight have been rescheduled due to arena committments for the telecast of the championship fight between Muhammed Ali and George Foreman.

Only Detroit Red Wings' game against the Canucks in Vancouver will be played as scheduled. Games between New York Islanders and California Seals at New York and Los Angeles Kings and Pittsburgh Penguins at Los Angeles were played Monday night.

A game at Toronto between the Maple Leafs and St. Louis Blues was shifted to Nov. 25, while Buffalo Sabres and Washington Capitals have been rescheduled for Feb. 21 at Landover, Md.

Harris Welcomes Bradshaw Back

PITTSBURGH (AP) — With Terry Bradshaw back at quarterback and Franco Harris rushing for 141 yards and scoring the winning touchdown Monday night, Pittsburgh Steelers rolled to a 24-17 victory over Atlanta Falcons in a National Football League game.

Bradshaw, in his first start since being unseated by freeslinging Joe Gilliam in the pre-season, brought the Steelers' ground game out of mothballs.

Harris' seven-yard touchdown run nine seconds into the final quarter staked the Steelers to a 24-14 lead and they held on to boost their record to 5-1-1 and widen their lead and they held on to boost their record to 5

Harris' seven-yard touchdown run nine seconds into the final quarter staked the Steelers to a 24-14 lead and they held on to boost their record to 5-1-1 and widen their lead in the American Conference's Central Division to 1½ games over Cincinnati.

The Falcons, who fell to 2-6, trimmed Pittsburgh's margin to 24-17 on a 32-yard field goal by Nick Mike-Mayer five minutes into the final quarter.

Atlanta quarterback Bob Lee, who had thrown just one touchdown pass going into the game, fired two in the second quarter as the Falcons rallied to tie the halftime score at 14-14.

Lee's second scoring toss, a 24-yarder to Ken Burrow with 36 seconds left in the second period, followed a 42-yard completion to tight end Jim Mitchell, who bobbled the ball, then controlled it as he slammed to the turf on his back.

Earlier in the quarter, Lee passed nine yards to Al Dodd for another touchdown to cap a 43-yard drive that came one series after Atlanta's John James had punted 53 yards to the Steelers' one.

James' punt was fielded at the one by Steelers' rookie Lynn Swann, whose 52-yard punt return had helped Pittsburgh to a 14-0 lead after the first quarter.

Swann's return to the Atlanta 19 set up a 10-yard scoring spurt by Bleier. On the next Steelers' series, after a Jack Ham interception, Bradshaw completed a 22-yard pass to Ron Shaklin to start a 57-yard touchdown march capped by Bradshaw's one-yard dive into the end zone.

Mitchell Wins Vernon Carspiel

VERNON (CP) — A rink skipped by Bill Mitchell of Edmonton, Alta., won the championship game of the first annual Vernon Carspiel Monday in an 8-4 victory over former world champion Lyall Dagg of Kelowna.

Mitchell salted away the victory when he counted three in the 11th end.

For a second-place finish, the Dagg rink took home $2,400.

Pickering won $1,200 for placing third and Fink $800 for finishing fourth.

Dagg qualified for the championship game by defeating Fink 6-4, while Mitchell defeated Pickering 10-7.

In qualifying games Monday, Mitchell knocked out Jack Tucker of Vancouver 13-5, defending B.C. champ Jim Armstrong lost 9-2 to Pickering, Dagg edged Matt Baldwin of Edonmton 9-7 and Fink defeated Bob Gallaugher of Victoria 13-7.

A total of $19,000 in prizes was awarded for the four-day bonspiel. Thirty-two rinks entered the competition, which started Friday.

Poland Wins World Title

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Poland won the men's world volleyball championship Monday night, beating back a dramatic desperate rally by Japan.

After trailing 10-2 in the final game, the Japanese evened the score at 15 points each before bowing 17-15.

Japan slipped to third place in the final standings. The Soviet Union finished second.

The Japanese women's team finished in first place by beating the Soviet Union in the final. South Korea was third.

Cougars: A Deserving Welcome to Come Home To

bill walker

In what could well rank as the understatement of the season, it's nevertheless safe to say today that the Victoria Cougars of the Western Canada Hockey League soared to new heights on Sunday at Memorial Arena; and, more to the point, they looked good doing it.

The undeniable facts are that Cougars, thanks to Sunday's pulsating 4-3, come-from-behind victory over the defending Memorial Cup champion Regina Pats, are in first place in the WCHL West; and if that, in itself, is unusual, already they are being held in deep affection by the hockey faithful. Two goals, just 39 seconds apart by Greg Miazga ann Jim Gustafson, for the win, did much to solidify that relationship. And actually, it certainly must have been a rewarding sight for the youngsters to see 3,912 fans on hand to greet them on their return from a long and gruelling road trip.

The outpouring of support was reasonably justified as the Cougars did what no other Cougar team has ever done. They won six and tied two of 10 games on the road, which is at least four or five points better than coach Pat Ginnell had hoped for before the odyssey began. And they did it proudly too, outscoring their opponents 57-40, which is remarkable indeed for any team this early in the season.

The Late, Late Schedule

Sure, it was a gamble by Ginnell to go with a long, road jaunt early. If it had failed, he would have been the patsy. But it didn't, so he's a master tactician. And why not? Of such decisions, geniuses are sometimes made and even titles won.

Now the other half of the coin becomes equally as important. That flip comes in late February and March and if home ice has its advantages, the Cougars are in good hands because the schedule has them at home for 11 of their last 15 games; or what commonly might henceforth be referred to as the Cougars' edge.

At any rate, it's a great beginning, and more respectable than in the past few seasons when the Cougars were headed elsewhere and mostly with a downhill tow. Previous Cougar teams have had a record of misfortune, dissension and nonchalance which might be better left unexplained at this time in fairness to the present club.

So the fans turned out too, and it was almost like the old days on Sunday, going back to the original latter-day junior Cougars in the B.C. Junior Hockey League.

It was strictly a local presentation then, a group of city businessmen, headed by club president Bill Ferguson and managing director Bob Reid, putting it all together and running it as a winning and successful operation until it was sold to Eric Bishop and his interests.

When Hockey Was a Habit

People liked their hockey then for the usual reasons, of course. The Cougars had a winning club, a first-place finish in 1968-69, second in 1969-70, even if they finally were losers in both playoff series. And for the express benefits of figure filberts hereabouts who can't rightly recall what crowd totals can be like in our town, here are the official stats for the 1970 playoff series against Kamloops and Vernon:

In the semifinals, the Cats drew 12,063 in four games, an average of 3,000 a game, then in the finals against Vernon, they hit the jackpot. There were 4,004 at the first game, 4,199 at the second, and a league and playoff record of 5,219 in the finale. Which isn't bad, and in case your memory has slipped otherwise, that was the year Bruce Cowick (27-41) and Ted Plowe (28-40) shared the Cougar point championship.

So there it is and now fandom apparently is ready to be tapped again, and why not? Sure, one winning streak a season doesn't necessarily make, but one road trip at least put a lot of points on the board that were never there before; and even if there are several scattered outposts yet to be heard from, methinks that this time maybe, just maybe, we can toss out that old saying that goes something like this:

"Too much of anything tends to be monotonous."

Balderdash! This we can take.

PROBLEM WITH FIRE

TORONTO (CP) — An emergency meeting of World Football League owners is being held today in Chicago to discuss the withdrawal of Chicago Fire, John Bassett, owner of the WFL's Memphis Southmen has announced.

Bassett said the Fire has informed the league it will not play its last three games of the regular schedule, all of them on the road.

RESTLESS TOROS PAD WIN STREAK

TORONTO (CP) — With six victories in six home games, one might think Toronto Toros coach Billy Harris would prefer to stay in Maple Leaf Gardens forever. But after whipping Phoenix Roadrunners 7-3 Monday night Harris said he doesn't mind going on the road now.

"I think the players want to get away for a while," he said after Toros continued their domination of the Canadian division of the World Hockey Association before a crowd of 7,525.

Tommy Simpson, who has played only four of Toros' six games because of a knee injury, scored his sixth and seventh goals of the season Monday.

Other Toronto scorers were league scoring leader Wayne Dillon, Vaclav Nedomansky, Tony Featherstone, Guy Trottier and Paul Henderson. Dillon, Simpson, Featherstone and Henderson are among six Toronto players in the league's top 13 scorers.

Toronto goalie Gilles Gratton, making his third start of the season, stopped 33 shots, Jack Norris of Phoenix had 37 saves.

Phoenix coach Sandy Hucel said Roadrunners had made too many mistakes, and will continue to have problems until they stop.

"They (Toros) had the territorial edge tonight," he said. "We made mistakes that cost us the game, and until we cut down on the mistakes they're going to continue to be costly."

Harris said he wants a meeting in the next three weeks with general manager Buck Houle to discuss cutting the team roster down to size.

He said that ideally he likes 20 players on a club, with three goalies. He now has 26.

"It's tough on the players when you have to sit guys out," he said. "Some of them think they don't have a good game or a good shift and they may be replaced. It causes a lot of tension."

Toronto led 3-2 after the first period, opened a three-goal lead in the second and added two in the third.

Phoenix' Mark Stevens drew a five-minute major for high-sticking after Pat Hickey was cut about the eye, but Hickey said later it was an accident.

"The stick went right in my eye," he said. "I was worried for a while when it hit me that I might lost the eye."

The cut, on the left eyelid, was closed with a stitch.

The win Monday moved Toronto four points up on second-place Nordiques, who have eight in Canadian division standings.

Roadrunners Top Soccer

Reynolds Roadrunners retained the league title with a 2-1 decision over Oak Bay Bays at Topaz Park as playoff positions were settled Monday in the Greater Victoria High School Soccer League.

In other games, runner-up Victoria Tyees knocked host Mt. Douglas Rams out of playoff contention with a 2-1 decision, visiting Claremont Spartans topped Parkland Panthers 4-2 and Esquimalt Dockers posted a 5-2 win over Belmont-Fisher Braves.

Reynolds now meets Oak Bay and Victoria takes on Spectrum in semi-final matches Monday. League officials are hoping to stage both encounters at Royal Athletic Park, weather and field conditions permitting.

The Colonist Cup final is scheduled for Nov. 8 at Royal Athletic.

Keith Thompson and Greg Booth, with his 19th goal of the season, scored for Reynolds before the half and Dave Richmond got one back for Oak Bay after the break.

League-leading marksman Ron McGovern notched his 21st goal of the season and John Spadafora connected to put Tyees ahead 2-0 at half-time. Richard Hunt scored for fifth-place Rams in the second half.

Doug Burns (2), Steve Grant and Dave Scotney connected for Spartans while Fred Clark and Mike Nauss answered for Panthers.

Scorpions Open a Crucial Season

BOB BURROWS

HOWARD TOOBY
. . . new coach

By JIM CRERAR
Times Staff

It's shaping up as a make-or-break year for Victoria Scorpions.

Ready to begin their third season of men's basketball this weekend — their first in the Dogwood Senior "A" League — Scorpions can't afford a repeat of last year.

They dropped $1,500. Another financial fizzle and they'll undoubtedly be gone, as extinct as the Victoria-Seattle ferry run.

The budget this year is approximately $7,000 and the club is betting the bundle that enough customers will show up for games at Central Junior High to at least break even.

"The advantage of having a league to play in is to get the backing of Victoria fans," explained manager Dave Henson Monday. "We played exhibition games for the second year in a row last season and lost heavily financially."

Scorpions have been knocking on the Dogwood League door both years they've existed, but had it slammed in their faces because the league wanted no part of travel costs to the Island

So Scorpions have agreed to reimburse the other four league clubs — Vancouver Capilanos, Richmond, Burnaby-New Westminster and North Shore — $125 each time they come. They each come once, playing Saturday night-Sunday afternoon doubleheaders, which means Scorpion sponsor Ian Scott-Moncrieff is shelling out an extra $500 for the privilege of playing league games at home.

Scorpions open this Saturday and Sunday at Richmond, expected to be the class of the league, then play their home openers the following weekend against Burnaby-New Westminster. They'll play a 16-game league schedule, six exhibition games and two tournaments — their own Dec. 14 and 15, and the UVic classic Dec. 27 and 28.

Scorpions expect to finish among the top three, which would put them in the playoffs. The second and third-place clubs meet in a best-of-three semi-final with the winner playing the first-place club in a best-of-five final to determine the B.C. representative in the Canadian championship, probably in Winnipeg next March.

A new coach and a tighter defence are the keys to Scorpions' fortunes. The coach is Dave Tooby, who guided Victoria Rawlings to a national Senior "A" women's championship and also coached UVic Vikettes and Haida Braves Junior "A" men. He replaces 6-foot-3 forward Bob Burrows, who wants to concentrate on playing this year

Probably one of the best shooting clubs in the country, Scorpions managed only a 19-13 over-all mark last season because of casual defensive play. Tooby has been working on that.

The roster includes eight holdovers and three newcomers. Back are centre Mike Bishop (6 feet, 5 inches), forwards Chris Hall (6-4), Burrows, Gord Hoshal (6-5) and Barry Murch (6-2), and guards Walt Burrows (5-11), Dave Morgan (6-2) and Brian MacKenzie (6-2).

The rookies are Rick Marc, a 5-foot-11 guard who was a B.C. high school all-star in Vancouver and is coaching Spectrum Senior Secondary Hornets this season; Tom Holmes, a 6-foot-6 centre from UVic Vikings, and Jim Chapman, a 6-foot-1 guard from Washington State University and Columbia Basin Junior College in Eastern Washington. A shortstop in the Atlanta Braves' farm system during the baseball season, he's the son of former Victoria Domino basketball star Art Chapman.

Consistency on the Court

Consistent shooting by the big guns kept rivals off balance Monday night as the number of undefeated clubs in the Victoria Senior "B" Men's Basketball League was reduced to two.

London Boxing Club got a 24-point performance from Jim McKay and cruised to a 75-63 decision over Hotel Douglas for a third straight victory in the still-young season.

Harry Hunter was the most effective gunner in the opening contest at Royjl Oak Junior Secondary School, collecting 23 points in leading James Bay Athletic Association to a second successive win, this one an 89-71 triumph over winless Stevens Interiors.

Hunter was a steady sniper, dropping five field goals in each half and adding one free throw in the opening half and swishing two gift tosses in the second session.

Jim Cunningham did his best to keep Interiors in the battle, hitting six free throws and seven field shots for 20 points.

McKay was even more consistent than Hunter, swishing six field goals in each half for his 24 points, six more than the total produced by John Lauvaas, scoring leader for the Hotel squad.

BOXING CLUB (75) — Jack Robinson 16, Dave Wirtanen 9, Loris Corletto 4, Rich Connolly 4, Bill Hingley 2, Alf Haas, Jim McKay 24, Bob Wiley 16.

Runners Hit Turn Trouble

Pursuing girls can be a pleasant pastime, but it can apparently lead to disappointment in cross-country running.

At least there was disappointment Monday at Esquimalt Lagoon for Tom Griffin of Mount Douglas and Brian Blamey of Oak Bay, the young men who had finished first and second in the first five races this season in the Victoria Inter-High School Cross-Country League.

On what should have been a 4.1-mile jaunt, Griffin and Blamey took a wrong turn and came home on the second half of the shorter girls' course.

Disqualification was the penalty for their error and Esquimalt's Bob Noble was the winner among the 52 starters. Noble finished in 22:13 and was followed by Jon Smith of Oak Bay and Kevin Kendall of Mount Douglas.

"We knew there was something wrong when they finished in about 15 minutes," commented meet-director Tom Hatcher on the Griffin-Blamey incident. "After checking, we found they had missed a clearly-marked turn."

Claremont won team honors with 48 points under the reverse scoring system with Mount Douglas (58) second and Esquimalt (85) third. Following were Victoria High (126), Spectrum (127) and Oak Bay (132).

In the girls' race, Sharon Young of Esquimalt stayed on the prescribed 2.1-mile course and chalked up her fifth straight victory. Sharon covered the route in 15:36, finishing ahead of Belmont's Julie Rainey. Sharon Docherty of Esquimalt and Ulla Hansen of Mount Douglas.

Esquimalt was the leading team with 29 points. Next in line were Claremont (55) and Mount Douglas (77).

Hockey Spitters Draw Big Six Suspensions

Tom Rivoire and Brian Baynton fired two goals each Monday night to lead Ingraham Buckaroos to a 5-3 South Island Big Six Hockey League win over James Bay Athletic Association Gulls at Memorial Arena.

Meanwhile, three players are under indefinite suspensions following two incidents at the game.

Bob Painton and John Williams of Buckaroos and Marshall Mah of Gulls all received match penalties and will have their cases reviewed by Frank Spring, president of the B.C. Amateur Hockey Association.

Painton, who has already sat out two suspensions this year, and Mah were penalized for a spitting incident while both were in the penalty box and Williams was sent off the ice after a spearing episode.

Hornets Shoot At Title Sunday

The long wait ends Sunday at Courtenay for junior bantam football's Saanich Hornets.

It was back in July that the Hornets completed their regular season as South Island champions. Since then, they have been waiting impatiently for their shot at the Vancouver Island crown.

They finally get that shot Sunday when they go against Courtenay Cougars, who earned the North Island berth last weekend with a 19-7 playoff victory over league-champion Nanaimo Trojans.

Halfback Mike Gibson, with two touchdowns and a conversion, and John Valtena, with one touchdown, accounted for the Courtenay points.

Hornets have been accumulating bruises and game experience in playoff preparations over the past few weeks, playing five exhibition games against Mainland clubs.

The Saanich boys completed their exhibition exercises with four victories and one defeat when they overpowered North Vancouver Colts 46-18 last weekend on the Mainland.

Winner of Sunday's Island final will move into the provincial semi-final at Royal Athletic Park on Nov. 10.

Comox Prevails In Flag Football

Orr Has Fast Start In NHL Scoring Race

MONTREAL (CP) — Bobby Orr of Boston Bruins, the only defenceman to win the National Hockey League scoring championship — with 120 points in the 1969-70 season — could be making a bid for his second title.

Orr, runner-up to centre Phil Esposito of the Bruins in the scoring race in three of the last four seasons, was listed in first place in statistics released by the league Monday.

Orr, who finished third in the scoring race in 1972-73 when centre Bobby Clarke of Philadelphia Flyers was runner-up to Esposito, picked up 10 points in three games last week.

Included was a three-goal game to go along with six assists picked up over the three-game span. That outburst gave Orr a total of four goals and 11 assists for 15 points in eight games the Bruins have played so far this season.

Going into Monday night's action, Orr held a one-point advantage over right winger Jim Pappin of Chicago Black Hawks, forward Ivan Boldirev, also of the Hawks, and centre Marcel Dionne of Detroit Red Wings.

Dionne led the league in assists with 12.

RECORD CROWDS GETTING THEIR KICKS

TORONTO (CP) — It's a downright miscarriage of justice to say the Canadian Football League is losing its fan appeal with so many games being decided by the boot.

Reports of fan dissension because of the lack of touchdowns in the Canadian game were rife earlier in the season.

Canadian kickers are still deciding the outcome of games, but the fans are flocking to the nine CFL stadiums in increasing numbers.

Edmonton Eskimos have broken seasonal home records in successive games, 25,009 turning out for their 31-8 victory over British Columbia Lions.

Three of the four games on the weekend produced all-time home stadium records for regular scheduled games, including 35,007 at Toronto's CNE Stadium to watch a 19-11 Argonaut win over Hamilton Tiger-Cats, and 22,394 in Regina where Saskatchewan Roughriders dumped Montreal Alouettes, 17-2.

The Audi has the very same steering system as the Ferrari racing car.

You get just about the same headroom and legroom in the Audi as you do in the Rolls-Royce Silver Shadow.

The Cadillac Eldorado has front-wheel drive. So does the Audi. Only the Audi had it first.

The Audi's interior looks so much like that of the Mercedes-Benz 280SE, you can hardly tell them apart.

Hockey Helmets For Officials?

TORONTO (CP) — Hugh McLean, a referee-in-chief of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association (CAHA), wanted all association officials to wear helmets next season.

Referees and linesmen in the Ontario Minor Hockey Association will don helmets next year, and McLean says he will introduce a motion at the CAHA's annual meeting in Quebec City next May to introduce the same rule in his association.

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

In the post-mortem analysis of today's deal, it was revealed that the East-West defenders could have defeated South's game contract. However, for them to have done so would have required clairvoyance on their part. The deal arose in a tournament. East-West vulnerable. South deals.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	1 NT	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Four of ♠.

Upon winning the opening lead with the ace of spades, East shifted to the queen of diamonds, dummy's ace taking the trick. The four adversely-held trumps were picked up in two rounds, after which the king and queen of spades were cashed. On the queen of spades dummy's three of diamonds was discarded.

Declarer now led his remaining diamond, thus eliminating diamonds from both North and South hands. It mattered not which of the opponents elected to win this diamond trick, for it was impossible for them to cash two club tricks. Whichever defender won this trick would play a club, West's ace perforce taking the trick.

West would now have no choice but to lead either a spade or a diamond; and whichever he led would be ruffed with the board's last trump while, simultaneously, South would discard his remaining club on this trick.

Had declarer not discarded a diamond from dummy on the queen of spades, the four-spade contract would have been defeated. In this case West, upon winning his ace of clubs, would simply have led a diamond for declarer to ruff. Eventually East would have made his club king.

As was stated, the contract could have been defeated even after West had elected to lead a spade at trick one. If East, upon winning this trick, had shifted to a club at trick two, the defenders could not have been prevented from making two club tricks, a spade, and a diamond. However, East certainly cannot be faulted for having led a diamond at trick two.

And, of course, if West had guessed to have led the club ace at trick one, declarer once again could have attributed his forthcoming defeat to circumstances beyond his control.

Jill put down her pen. "You know something?" she said.

"When I was as old as you are now I was twice as old as you were then."

"That's crazy," replied Jack. "You're only five years older than me."

They were both quite right about their ages, so how old was Jill?

Thanks for an idea to N. D. Acton, Huntsville, Alabama.

Top Cadets From Sidney

For the fifth consecutive year the Royal Canadian Air Cadets Squadron 676 of Sidney is the top squadron in British Columbia, again winning the D. R. MacLaren Trophy.

The squadron has also won the B.C. Committee Air Cadet League of Canada Award for having the most outstanding band. The band won the award in 1969, 1971, 1972 and 1973.

Capt. J. H. McLeod, the squadron's commanding officer, was presented with the awards in Penticton during the weekend at the annual meeting of Air League's B.C. committee.

In addition this year, the squadron won the Strathcona Trust competition, rural division, in which marksmen from army, navy and air cadet corps in B.C. compete.

McKeachie succeeds Thomas Prentice of Vancouver.

NANAIMO POLLS BUSY

This fall is shaping up as an extremely busy one for voters in the Nanaimo area, with three separate balloting sessions facing them in November and December.

The first is Saturday (Nov. 2) as voters decide on amalgamation of Nanaimo with surrounding areas.

Next on the schedule is voting Nov. 16 to elect school trustees from candidates nominated Monday as the rest of British Columbia, except Vancouver, put together candidate lists for 1973 municipal elections.

Close of nominations for Nanaimo city council candidates is scheduled Dec. 2 with elections slated Dec. 14.

Also on its own civic election schedule — this year as always — is the City of Vancouver, where nominations close Wednesday and balloting will be held Nov. 20.

Canadian Press

There is a wealth of candidates for municipal office in some centres — notably Kamloops — but a dearth of people willing to serve in other areas following Monday's close of nominations for British Columbia municipal elections Nov. 16.

Voters in Kamloops and Kelowna will face a confusing array of candidates and ballots, while in some smaller centres there will be no balloting at all because posts were filled by acclamation.

The widely-separated municipalities of Stewart, near the Alaska Panhandle, and Midway, close to the border with Washington State, will have to go the appointment route to fill council vacancies.

In Stewart, nomination day left the district council short-handed. Three aldermanic seats were open, but only one incumbent, Ronald Dennis Brown, chose to run and he was unopposed.

District Clerk Alf Burton said council would use the power granted in the Municipal Act to appoint aldermen to the two remaining seats at its first meeting after Jan. 1, 1975.

Only one candidate could be found for three seats up for grabs on council in Midway, near Grand Forks, but two incumbents who did not seek re-election came to the village's rescue.

Frank Carpenter and George Bubar, both veteran aldermen, said they would serve if appointed by council. Both had planned to retire from council, Village Clerk R. J. Hatton, said.

In Kamloops, 35 names crowd the aldermanic ballot seeking the 12 council seats, all of which represent specific wards in the city but are elected at large.

The complex system, which came into effect when the provincial government amalgamated Kamloops and nine outlying areas in 1973, guarantees council representation from each part of the new city.

Of the 12 aldermen, three will represent North Kamloops; two each will speak for South Kamloops and Brocklehurst-Tranquille; and one each will be from Dufferin Southwest, Valleyview, Barnhart Vale-Dallas, Westsyde and Heffley-Rayleigh.

Each city voter casts his ballot for the allowed number of aldermen in every ward. The winner in Dufferin Southwest, for example, will have been elected by voters in every other ward although he will represent only his own.

If, as almost happened Monday, only one candidate filed for Heffley-Rayleigh, he would have been elected by acclamation and city voters would have elected 11 others (instead of 12) on Nov. 16. A last-minute filing for Heffley-Rayleigh, however, assured an election for all ward positions.

BELMONT OPPOSITION

Three candidates are running for the two Belmont zone seats open this year on Sooke school board.

They are incumbents Isabelle Reader, seeking her 11th term, and Alan Littler, current board chairman, and housewife Irene Lane of 3810 Duke Rd.

In early editions of Monday's Times it was stated that Reader and Littler were running unopposed in Belmont zone.

BARRETT AWAITS OFFSHORE TALKS

VANCOUVER (CP) — Premier Dave Barrett said Monday that British Columbia is waiting to begin negotiations with the federal government about jurisdiction over offshore natural resources.

He denied claims made last week by federal Energy Minister Donald Macdonald that the province has abandoned its claims to offshore resources.

The premier added that B.C. is opposed to any offshore oil drilling.

Premier Barrett said former prime minister Lester Pearson then gave his word the federal government would negotiate with Victoria about offshore natural resources.

"We would not expect anyone to go back on Mr. Pearson's word," said Barrett.

He said oil exploration off the coast, because of pollution dangers, "is not a negotiable item; therefore there is no point talking about it."

In 1846, John Dewar went into business for himself as a spirit merchant at 111 High Street, Perth, Scotland.

Special, because the single whiskies are not shocked by being dumped together at once. We let them rest quietly awhile, so that the blend will have greater uniformity and more dependable consistency.

In this Scottish city, on the banks of the River Tay, nothing much has changed. The castle is still there, and every year, from January to December, when the air is chill and pure and the water is cold, the people of Perth make Dewar's Scotch Whisky.

Son Tommy Dewar looked for new markets at the 1885 Brewer's Show and used a bagpipe to entertain. (The first commercial use of music?)

Sir Thomas Dewar became famous for such terse comments as, "Do right and fear no man; don't write and fear no woman".

All good reasons to remember...

Condominium Ban Lifted

Developers in Esquimalt can again apply to municipal council for approval to convert duplexes into condominiums after a moratorium on such conversions was lifted Monday night.

"We consider a lot of rezoning applications on their individual merit," said Ald. George McCreadie, who added council should be able to deal with conversion applications the same way.

Other aldermen agreed a blanket policy was no longer necessary to force developers to keep rental units on the market.

Ald. Ken Hill opposed lifting the ban and said "there's a drastic need today for rental units."

Council will from now on judge each application under the provincial Strata Titles Act on its own.

"I know it sounds arbitrary, but we don't necessarily need grounds to approve" or disapprove all applications, McCreadie said.

Permission was then given owners of a duplex at 930-932 Forshaw Rd. to register it as a condominium.

The building will first be inspected for sound- and fire-proofing.

In the early days of the Strata Titles Act, Ald. Terry Prentice said after the meeting, little regard was given matters of sound insulation or fire protection when duplexes were converted.

NEW GOV'T WAGE TALKS PLANNED

Executive members representing 1,000 B.C. government employees will meet this week to plan their next move toward contract settlement with the government.

Last week the members rejected a proposed agreement with the Public Service Commission that would cover wages and conditions for persons employed in administrative, fiscal and regulatory section of the B.C. Government Employees Union.

Resources Contract Close

One out of nine outstanding contracts involving the B.C. Public Service Commission and members of the B.C. Government Employees Union is near tentative agreement.

Negotiations covering the rest are expected to run at least several weeks, not counting the possibility of work stoppage where efforts toward settlement break down.

The union said today members of the environment, resources and conservation section had progressed close to a settlement, while negotiators for the social and health services, and the educational and scientific sections were still active in talks.

Talks have yet to begin on behalf of four sections: retail stores and warehouse (the Liquor Administration Branch); operational services (such as highways department); engineering, technical and inspectional; trades and crafts.

In two sections negotiations have either broken down, as with marine officers, or proposals have been rejected by members, as with the administrative, fiscal and regulatory branch.

Les Breaks Rules To Push Housing

Down and out?

Ald. Les Passmore of Saanich showed Monday night he's not to be kept down although he's on his way out.

Passmore threw parliamentary procedures to the winds when, in the absence of Mayor Ed Lum, he presided at a public hearing.

The public hearing was on five rezoning items, three of which were applications to rezone single-family property to allow duplexes.

Passmore, who is retiring this year after 33 years on council, refused to accept the parliamentary requirement that a chairman adopt a role of neutrality, using his position instead to drive home the point that housing—or lack of it—is one of the most critical problems facing society today.

He lectured residents who opposed the duplexes.

He told one man, who claimed "only Saanich is living in the 1800s" and called for money to be spent on getting rid of open ditches, providing roads and other services, instead of the extra police and fire protection required by a rising population:

"You can't live in a storm sewer. You have to have a house to live in."

Passmore continued to lecture the opposing residents and asked them why renters were so often considered "second-class citizens."

When told he was out of order by some of the residents, Passmore retorted he knew he was—"But I'm also a humanitarian."

He persisted; even after Ald. Sandy Noel also cautioned he was out of order and Ald. Mel Couvelier told him:

"You're usurping the privilege of the chair. I really must protest."

Passmore, still bent on his battle for more housing, said he was quite prepared to take any reprimand.

"I'm quite prepared to accept it," he said.

75-Year-Old Adrift For 3 Days

By PAT DUFOUR
Times Staff

"I'm bloody lucky to be rescued."

There was no mincing of words when Bill Bohler, 75, a commercial fisherman from Prince Rupert, was contacted by the Times today.

Resting up at Miner's Bay on Mayne Island in Active Pass, the elderly fisherman was rescued Monday after being tossed around for three days in the Gulf of Georgia, his 33-foot troller out of fuel and water from a leak in the Solo's stern sloshing through her cabin.

Bohler was making his way from Prince Rupert to Vancouver when he ran out of fuel off Point Atkinson, outside Vancouver harbor.

He was sighted 12:50 p.m. Monday by lighthouse keeper Jack Ruck of Georgina Point lighthouse on the northern tip of Mayne Island.

"It was quite rough," Ruck said. "The wind was blowing 25 miles an hour. He had a sea anchor out and he was tossing about pretty good."

Ruck said the fishboat was three miles northeast of the island when he first sighted her, being tossed about in six-foot waves.

Ruck alerted the Pacific Rescue Co-ordination Centre and by 1:10 p.m. the destroyer-escort HMCS Mackenzie was on the scene.

Her commander, Cmdr. Richard Donaldson, sent a workboat over the side. Three of the boat's crew went aboard Solo with enough fuel to get her into Sturdies Bay, across from Miner's Bay.

By this time, the coastguard hovercraft from Vancouver arrived and escorted Solo into a berth at Miner's Bay.

Steve Williams of Springwater Lodge in Miner's Bay, said Bohler was "pretty shaken" Monday night but by the time he came up to the lodge for breakfast today he was in good form.

For three days Bohler had been unable to eat.

"I couldn't even cook," he said. "It was too rough. The battery was low and I couldn't even get through on the phone."

Was he sure of his whereabouts?

Bohler admitted he had no chart on board.

Williams said, "The coast guard people roasted him (Bohler) pretty good when they found he had no chart."

He added. "To have no chart, no power and no food and to be out there in that weather must have been a pretty harrowing experience."

A navy spokesman said Bohler was also using the wrong frequency on his radio, one that worked in the Prince Rupert area but not here.

Bohler is now waiting for a pump to arrive to dry out his leaking craft. He said he would have to recaulk the stern in order to get her seaworthy again.

ONE DEAD IN CRASH

A Port Alberni man was killed, another injured and a Victorian escaped injury when a station wagon collided with a semi-trailer truck on the Trans-Canada Highway three miles north of Mill Bay Monday evening.

John Gordon Taylor, 31, is dead and Robert Hewson, 36, also of Port Alberni, is in Cowichan District Hospital after the accident, which occurred at 7:20 p.m.

Driver of the semi-trailer was Thomas Copeland, 55, of 2852 Wyndeatt, Victoria, who suffered no injury.

Hewson was driving the car south when the accident occurred, police said.

'Sabotage' Charged In Board Formation

By PETER MEDWID
Times Staff

Two ratepayer association presidents "deliberately sabotaged" an attempt to form a community resource board in the Colwood - Langford - Metchosin area, Rev. David Stiven, chairman of a steering committee investigating the idea, charged today.

Stiven claims Shirley Wilde, president of the Albert Head Ratepayers Association, "effectively stopped the community from learning anything about the human resources program.

"It was a deliberate attempt to sabotage the whole deal."

The meeting in the Belmont-Fisher high school auditorium on Jacklin Road was attended by about 100.

Stiven's committee was formed last April to study the formation of a resource board for the area. The boards are intended to look into all human resources programs and to make recommendations to the provincial government on existing and possible programs.

Jack Waterman, president of the Metchosin Ratepayers Association said all he tried to do was to have the committee "dissociate Metchosin" from any community board.

Stiven admitted the two groups — Albert Head and Metchosin — do have legitimate fears municipal government might be forced on them.

"They will do anything moral or immoral to halt this from happening."

Stiven says Wilde told him after the meeting "anything is fair in love and war" but he replied "I want to know that war has been declared."

Stiven says the meeting degenerated when table groups attempted to make their reports. It was at this point that Wilde introduced a motion condemning the idea of a resource board.

The chairman says it was impossible . . . with the charges and countercharges being made . . . to bring the meeting back to order.

"I feel very discouraged by the series of events."

Stiven says the committee will meet within a week to decide if another attempt will be made to create a board.

At one point in the meeting Stiven admitted that he and others on the committee were not in favor of the resource board.

"I shouldn't have said this. I was the chairman and I should have been impartial. "But I was being hassled and I did say it."

Waterman this morning says the human resources branch is "trying to get up a series of fall guys should anything go wrong with their programs . . . such as the overspending in the department this year."

He says "all it sets up is another group through which government money must pass. Every time money passes over hands some of it gets stuck on those hands . . . to pay expenses, hire staff etc. Someone has to pay the extras and that's you and me . . . the taxpayers."

Wilde said after the meeting she was not there as the president of the ratepayers but "as a concerned taxpayer."

Rentals Office 'Chaos'

One of the most frustrating experiences imaginable is trying to telephone the B.C. Rentalsman's office in Vancouver, says Jim Nelson of the Victoria Rental Aid Service.

Nelson said he tried "10 times in a row" Monday to get through to Rentalsman Barrie Clark, leaving 10 minutes between attempts, but each time he had a busy signal.

"Tenants are complaining, landlords are complaining . . . it's just chaos," he said, adding that the frustration in Victoria is resulting in heavy demands on his office.

Nelson said Clark's 20 phones in Vancouver are obviously inadequate to handle a province-wide volume of inquiries and complaints — "he probably needs at least 60."

He said one partial solution to local problems will be for Clark to open a Victoria-area office as soon as possible. Nelson has offered to act as an agent for the Rentalsman in this respect, but the only reponse has been a letter saying the offer is being considered.

Nelson was trying to contact Clark Tuesday to accept an offer, extended three weeks ago, for him to visit and study the Rentalsman's operation in Vancouver.

Native Program Funds Cut

Camosun staff has proposed the college assume the cost of a reduced program, and the college council is expected to approve the move next week.

"It's not good but it's better than none at all. That's the only consolation," said Dixon Taylor, head of the native Indian program, about the proposed reduced program today.

The smaller college-funded program would eliminate Taylor's job, and that of his secretary and a counsellor and leave only one counsellor to handle Indian problems exclusively.

The new program would offer a number of the same courses now offered for native Indians, such as upgrading and small business management and native Indian studies.

The new program would cost the college $60,000 to $80,000, principal Dr. Grant Fisher told the college council's curriculum committee Monday.

The program now funded by Indian affairs had a $250,000 budget this year.

Taylor said the cutback results from a policy change in Indian affairs. Funds are no longer administered by the department regionally but are sent directly to Indian bands to give them local control of education.

The new policy has already caused a dramatic drop in enrolment in the native Indian program, he said, because students have had difficulty this year getting living allowances from Indian affairs to attend the college.

Enrolment this year in the academic upgrading courses is 15 compared with 50 to 60 last year, said Taylor.

He said he thinks local control of education is a good idea, but the policy is being carried out in "typical Indian affairs fashion."

Instead of gradually phasing out the regional funding that kept programs like the Camosun one going, the department cuts it off completely, he said.

Taylor said he fears there may be a two to five-year gap before local bands are able to establish their own educational facilities.

But the Indians' need for education will still be there, he said.

APPEAL SOUGHT FOR OSBOURNE

Osbourne's lawyer, Lloyd McKenzie, said today he has written to the Legal Aid Society recommending an appeal be launched.

McKenzie said he expects to hear within a week whether Legal Aid will support an appeal.

An appeal, McKenzie said, must be filed within 45 days of conviction.

He did not expect to present any new evidence in an appeal, but would review evidence at the trial and the charge to the jury from the judge.

Ferry Union Huddles

Union negotiators were to meet today to decide what action to follow on behalf of 600 licensed officers of B.C. Ferries fleet whose contract mediation talks broke down last week.

The union and public service commission spent two days with mediator Ed Sims, who was not able to bring the sides together by Friday. Officers belong to B.C. Government Employees' Union, Marine (licensed) Branch.

Negotiating chairman John MacLean, of Ganges, said the union has been living with the BCGEU master agreement and wishes to stay with it, but the management wants changes as have been imposed upon the unlicensed branch.

MacLean said B.C. Ferries wants to change hours of work, statutory holidays and the right of individuals to refuse overtime work. In addition, there had been no agreement on wages.

The negotiating chairman said government negotiators had "never moved on anything," and from the start had "not negotiated in good faith."

dear abby

Lonely Man's Poem

DEAR ABBY: Several years ago, when my dear grandfather passed away, my son, his first great-grandchild, was given his grandfather's Bible. A few weeks ago, I was looking for a particular verse and discovered an old yellow clipping which I would like to share with the many younger people, like myself, who find annoyiung fault with their elders.

"Lord, thou knowest that I am growing older.
Keep me from getting talkative. Release me from trying to straighten out everybody's Affairs. Keep me from reciting endless
Details. Give me wings to get to the point."
"Give me grace to listen to the tales of others'
Pains, but help me to endure them with patience.
But seal my lips as to my own aches and pains.
Teach me the glorious lesson that occasionally
It is possible that I may be mistaken. Keep me
Reasonably sweet, make me helpful but not bossy.

After finding this clipping, I feel sad and ashamed that I did not show more love and patience to this lonely old man. LINDA M.

DEAR LINDA: Thanks for sharing. Who wrote it?

DEAR ABBY: Why do total strangers feel that they can take the liberty of touching and handling a young baby they've never seen before.

I frequently take my six-month-old son with me when I go shopping, and am constantly appalled at the number of people who feel free to grab his hands or feet, or try to tickle him, even when he's in my arms.

I appreciate remarks on what a lovely baby I have, but I consider touching rude and offensive. Babies are constantly putting their hands (and feet) in their mouths, so how easy it would be to have a cold (or worse) transmitted from a stranger who touched them.

I apologize for using your column to "sound off," Abby, but maybe my message will reach some of the offenders.

What are your thoughts on this? CONCERNED MOTHER.

DEAR CONCERNED: The fear that your baby might be contaminated by a stronger probably is more damaging to you than the actual touching is to the baby.

Simmer down, and calmly discourage strangers from touching with a pleasant: "Please, don't touch!" A harsh reprimand will give your child the idea that all strangers are "Typhoid Marys."

No Regrets for Rape Revenge

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — Does a woman have the right to track down and kill a man who raped her?

Inez Garcia, a 30-year-old native of New York's Spanish Harlem, faces life imprisonment here for killing a man she claims helped rape her.

"I feel anyone who has been raped has the right to kill back," she testified at her murder trial. "I'm not sorry I did it.

"I'm only sorry I missed Luis Castillo, the alleged rapist. I meant to kill him, too. That's the only thing I'm sorry about."

The rape was never proved in court and a jury of seven women and five men found Mrs. Garcia guilty Oct. 4 of second-degree murder for killing 300-pound Miguel Jimenez, 21. She claims Jimenez held her down and watched while Castillo, 17, raped her the night of March 19.

She admits grabbing a .22-calibre rifle and shooting Jimenez 17 minutes after the alleged rape.

Defence lawyer Charles Garry, who has filed an appeal, contends rape was so traumatic for Mrs. Garcia that the murder was "not only understandable but justifiable."

Feminist groups here and in the San Francisco Bay area rallied to Mrs. Garcia's defence over a woman's right to defend her own body. About 100 supporters were in Monterey Superior Court each day of the three-day trial.

There was widespread newspaper coverage of the trial, but the defendant couldn't read the stories. She is illiterate.

The prosecutor, Deputy district Attorney Braudrick, said the rape story was "preposterous." He maintained that Mrs. Garcia's trial was "an open-and-shut homicide case."

"I know the jury felt that even if there was a rape you can't go out and hunt someone down and kill them and take the law into your own hands," Braudrick said in an interview.

"In the heat of passion it would be manslaughter. But this was about a half-hour later." Braudrick claimed Mrs. Garcia killed Jimenez because he threatened her during a brawl over drug trafficking at the apartment of Fred Medrand, 25, tried as her co-defendant.

Braudrick said she had no known involvement with drugs, but was present when Jimenez and Castillo beat up Medrano. Medrano's case was declared a mistrial because of a hung jury.

Mrs. Garcia said Jimenez and Castillo dragged her outside after the fight at Medrano's, raped her and telephoned back minutes later to threaten her.

She says she then called her brother-in-law in Miami to say she had been raped and was going to gun down her attackers.

Superior Court Judge Stanley Lawson did not admit rape evidence at the trial. When Garry was discussing the rape during the trial, Lawson told him to stop.

"There is no man on trial for rape and the attitude of the police for rape or murder as far as I am concerned has nothing to do with the guilt or innocence of this woman," the judge said.

During the cross-examination of one defence witness Mrs. Garcia jumped to her feet and shouted at Judge Lawson: "Why don't you find me guilty and put me in jail? I killed him because I was raped and I'll kill him again."

Mrs. Garcia married at age 15 and moved to California when her husband Juan, a Cuban anti-Castro freedom fighter, was sentenced to Soledad prison for a Los Angeles bombing.

She worked as a farm laborer in the lettuce and strawberry fields of the Salinas Valley to earn money to bring her 11-year-old son here.

Psychiatrists testified that Mrs. Garcia has hysterical tendencies and was in a "deep dissociative state" after the alleged rape.

They said she is a devout Roman Catholic and holds an idealized, almost saint-like image of herself which she tries to live up to. Her husband also took the stand and testified to her strict morality.

During the trial Mrs. Garcia was asked why she didn't try to escape by fleeing down a nearby alley when Castillo and Jimenez allegedly raped her.

"When something like that is happening to you you're not thinking of some alley," she said. "Afterward you think of all the things you could do. Just to give in and do anything just to stay alive. All I wanted was to live."

Alvarez-Welch Medical Report

By DR. WILLIAM WELCH

I don't mean any disrespect to that admirable and dedicated nurse, Sister Kenny, when I ask whatever happened to her.

But I was reminded today that when Dr. Salk and Dr. Sabin provided us with a specific prevention of infantile paralysis, all the carefully monitored hot-packs and other nursing techniques went by the boards and, along with them, went all the "specialists" in the treatment of the dreadful paralyses of the young and the not-so-young, who used to be struck down by that disease.

One might well ask whatever happened to the old-fashioned "pneumonia specialists," who promptly disappeared when penicillin and a host of other antibiotics converted lobar pneumonia, one of yesterday's "number one killers," into a disease that responds to treatment.

Those erstwhile specialists have turned to new problems. Some have become specialists in other unsolved diseases of the lungs, such as emphysema.

Similarly, now that there are antibiotics and surgical excision to manage tuberculosis, the old-style TB associations now call themselves "lung associations." And most of the mountainside sanitaria have either closed their doors or turned to other problems.

It is well to ponder such facts when we try to weigh the merits of some of the marginal measures that are urged on us these days to prevent or treat diseases, the causes of which we have not yet understood.

Take the current enthusiasm for exercise as a means of preventing heart attacks as an example. It may very well be that, for many, exercise can enhance the quality of life. Specialists in the treatment of heart diseases are all agreed that good physical conditioning is probably more desirable than physical flabbiness.

But it is still far from proved that physical exercise will guarantee that you will have the doubtful privilege of experiencing old age. And, moreover, there is no certain evidence that increased physical activity will decrease your risk or mine of dying of a heart attack.

You may, to be sure, feel more fit, if you are in good physical condition, which among other things raises the question of what it is you feel more fit for.

But reservations are given short shrift by the enthusiasts who think something should be done, and they are not heard by the frightened patient who desperately wants to do something.

Thus I was not surprised to be approached recently by a commercial group which is undertaking to establish exercise centers all over the country for patients who have had, or might have, heart attacks.

They envisage such centers, each as a combination gymnasium and physiology laboratory, replete with treadmills and stationary bicycles, walk, jog and pedal, while their heartbeat, blood pressure and electrocardiograms are electronically recorded.

They offer a sort of franchise in return for which they will equip the facility and lease it to local doctors to run, in very much the way Howard Johnson paints the roof of a roadside stand, provides the ice-cream machinery and the recipes for fish cakes and leases the shop to local managers.

I do not doubt that such facilities — considering the paucity of specific measures to prevent heart attacks — will interest doctors, will draw patients, will perhaps fill a need, will probably do no harm and, incidentally, will make money for the company and the doctors who participate in the centers.

But until more facts are at hand, many would perhaps do better if, like the late Al Smith, they would settle for "taking a walk." Walking is, after all, splendid exercise and often diverting, which is more than can be said for jogging on a treadmill.

U.S. Agency Eyes Problem Of Makeup Contamination

ATLANTA (UPI) — The eye cosmetic industry may soon be forced to make its varied assortment of mascaras, liners and colored shadows a less inviting home for germs that can cause eye infection, or blindness in rare cases.

Dr. Louis Wilson, associate professor of ophthalmology in the Emory University School of Medicine, is doing research for the U.S. Federal Food and Drug Administration (FDA) on the problem of germ contamination in eye cosmetics.

He says research over the past three years has shown some brands of eye cosmetics become contaminated with use and can cause serious eye infection or even blindness. Other brands, however, are relatively resistant to contamination.

The problem, as Wilson explains it, is that a woman picks up bacteria from the surface of her eye lid when applying makeup with an applicator or brush. These bacteria are transferred back into the mascara or liner container, where they can live and "utilize any or all of the cosmetic parts as a source of nutrition."

In makeup that does not have an adequate preservative, Wilson says, the woman will layer bacteria onto her eye lid each time she reapplies the makeup.

Testing of 1,400 random samples of used eye cosmetics showed 55 to 60 per cent of the samples had bacterial contamination, he said.

The use of contaminated makeup, Wilson said, can lead to chronic infection of the lid margin, which can be cleared up with treatment, or the more severe corneal ulceration. He said he is aware of six cases of ulcerations, which begin with a scratch caused by an applicator brush and get worse by "innoculating bacteria onto the surface of the scratched cornea."

"If it happens to be the right bacteria," Wilson said, "you are off and running to a violent infection that can cause the loss of an eyeball or even sight."

Wilson said the only U.S. regulation at present concerning eye cosmetics is that they "can't be grossly contaminated when leaving the factory."

He said the FDA is moving toward regulations that would require the industry to insure that the product will remain safe during daily use for a reasonable period of time.

One way to do this, he said, would be to lable products "unsafe for use" after a certain amount of time, or package cosmetics in small containers so the product would be used quickly and could not become grossly contaminated. However, Wilson said the industry believes it would be economically unprofitable to use small containers.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Forecast For Wednesday, Oct. 30

By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Showdown is due and, although sparks fly, it will be healthy. Money and mate—money and partner—these are dominant factors. Capricorn, Cancer figure prominently. Do something definite to insure your security!

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Cycle now is one of contradiction, opposition and ultimate vindication. One who yields influence will become your ally. Know it and be confident. Your judgment, intuition really are on target. Draw attention to yourself. Blow your own horn!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Throw light on areas previously dark. Be bold in actions. Some are observing who evaluate personality, potential. Welcome chance to get before cameras. Make backwardness, undue shyness double strangers. Message should become crystal clear CANCER (June 21-July 22): You find that what you thought was lacking is supplied. Mainly, there is belonging, affection and a feeling that you are useful, needed. This is more than back-yard psychology jargon. You actually will feel fulfilled! Unorthodox person plays significant role.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Relief from pressure indicated—and it is welcome. Permit yourself to laugh—and eat! Yes, break the rules. The benefits will outweigh the deficits—in this case at this time (don't make a habit of it). The home-property situation will be resolved. Rest!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): What you desire is within your grasp. But you have to deal with distance, relatives and needed material, rights and permissions. Check various points of view—be aware of details and fine print. A little patience now can become a valuable asset. Stay out of traffic!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Study Virgo message for valid hint. Question of funds looms large. Key is to find reasons, to analyze motives. Be aware of costs. Deal with lively persons willing to invest in creative concepts. Gemini, Virgo could be involved.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Temptation may be to rush, to speak without thinking of consequences. Wise course now is to be diplomatic, to wait and see, to let other show their hands and reveal their plans. Question of legal importance could arise. Don't force issues.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Be selective. Wait for the best—reject the superficial. Pisces, Virgo figure prominently. Accent is on what occurs behind the scenes. Co-operate in hospital, charity project. You may have feeling of being confined. Condition is temporary. Don't be discouraged.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Your associates may appear to lack enthusiasm. You need not be bogged down by attitude of others. Your cycle now is such that you get action by assuming responsibility. Money reward, plus emotional satisfaction, will be greater than might be apparent on surface.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): One you respect offers suggestion. Be receptive without losing touch with your own style, independence. Opportunity is available now for advancement. Key is to get rid of losing proposition. Take "cold plunge" into future. Let the past go its way.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Look beyond present limitations. Some relatives seem intent on being disagreeable. Maintain balance, humor. Leo, Aquarius figure in picture. A trip could be canceled. Check reservations possible revision of plans.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are versatile, active, fond of travel and a natural host or hostess. You have a knack for entertaining, for making people laugh at their own foibles. Your own emotional bruises are now in the healing process. In 1975, you will be happier, more productive and, if single, you will be getting married.

'Polarization' Grabs Judge

TORONTO (CP) — British Columbia provincial court Judge Nancy Morrison wishes women would stop opposing other women and learn to work together in their common cause.

She calls this phenomenon "polarization." It occurs, she said, when women who stay at home resent women who work and vice-versa.

Judge Morrison, 37, currently is serving as vice-chairman of the labor relations board of British Columbia and was in Toronto to attend the annual meeting of the Canadian Bar Association.

Young in her looks and manner, she doesn't fit into the traditional image of a judge, nor does she wish to be addresse judge, nor does she wish to be addressed as such.

She is one of the leading advocates of women's rights on the West Coast.

"Polarization makes my stomach grab," she said. "I think it is something that must be dealt with — and the sooner the better." To solve this problem the problem areas must be looked at."

The word "abortion" tops the problem area.

"There is terrific hostility and polarization between women because of the abortion issue," she said.

"People seem to look at this situation only in terms of black and white."

She said there is no magic solution to the abortion problem.

"After all, there is total agreement about one portion of this issue. We all want to cut down on unwanted pregnancies.

"If half the energies that these two polarized groups (pro and anti-abortion) spent were put into seeking a compromise or working towards a solution . . . well, it would be mind-boggling."

WHILE ENGINEERS of the Canadian and provincial engineers' associations attended a convention in the city during the weekend, wives held their own session, at the Oak Bay Marina. Following a luncheon, from left, Anna Garry, Leona Forsberg, Gladys Page, Erika Pleasance, Mona McGill, Josie Bergman and Ellen Mould modelled bathing suits fashionable in another time. Underwear, Bleach Mix Brings Rash

He said the patient was cured.

Jordan said the problem was traced to a reaction between the bleach used by the patient's wife in laundering and the rubber in the elastic part of his underwear.

Jordan said there may be a significant incident of this type of skin allergy as indicated by a group of Virginia State Penitentiary inmates and others who volunteered as subjects to test the bleached rubber allergy.

He said many undergarments manufactured in the United States use the type of rubber that is susceptible to the bleach reaction. He added there is no way that manufacturers of undergarments, of the rubber used in them, or of bleach could have foreseen the reaction.

"It's ironic that such a complex reaction could just happen in the washing machine," he said.

Jordan said the allergy's symptoms — itching and rash where skin contacts the waistband and legbands of the undergarment — are identical to those of other known rubber allergies. He said that, and the lack of a sensitivity test for bleached rubber, were major reasons that the allergy had not been detected before.

He indicated further investigation will probably be necessary before the test for bleached rubber allergy can be incorporated into the standard battery of allergy tests.

The itching and rash characteristic of the allergy are produced by a substance released when household bleach contacts a chemical used in the manufacture of the rubber. The chemical, zinc dibenzyldithiocarbamate (ZDC), when mixed with sodium hypochlorite bleach, was found to produce eight major compounds, Jordan said.

Breath Test Detects Cancer

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — A breath test taken after digestion of a radioactive capsule has proved 87 per cent effective in determining various stages of cancer, according to researchers at the Medical College of Virginia.

The test, conducted with a capsule made of butter fat and the radioactive carbon-14, was developed by Dr. Giovanni Costa, head of the sciences division at MCV.

While still in the experimental stage, the quick, inexpensive breath test has been performed on about 160 persons separated into four groups; those with cancer; those with diseases other than cancer; healthy individuals, and those with nondiagnosed disorders.

The patients were given the capsules, and 24 hours later a sample of their exhaled breath was analyzed for content of radioactive carbon dioxide.

Amounts of radioactive carbon above a certain threshhold seemed to indicate the presence of tumors in the body, according to test results.

Costa said he is somewhat uncertain why the test works. He said it has been observed that cancer reduces a tumor patient's stores of fat.

"But we don't know at the moment" whether tumors speed up the breakdown of fats, or whether they somehow short circuit the normal metabolic processes, Costa said.

Happiness Is a Button

We are all accustomed to advertisements which extol the miraculous virtues of new products. While it must be difficult for copywriters to create excitement for dull, new products, imagine the challenge of writing advertisements for dull, old products:

INTRODUCING THE TYPEWRITER! This new, amazing discovery allows you to write words. Any word. Long words. Short words. Obscene words. The only limit to the words your machine will write is your own imagination. Writes in any language from French to Serbo-Croatian. Any number from one to one million can be reproduced by your machine as well, in either stately black or brilliant red, the color used almost exclusively by the Federal Government!

HAPPINESS IS A WARM BUTTON! Does your shirt persist in flapping open, exposing an unseemly degree of bare chest? Try buttons. The result of exhausting hours of scientific research, buttons are designed to effectively close any garment from the finest silk to the lowliest homespun. Personally approved by Yves St. Laurent for the garments of his most exclusive clients, buttons are used daily by such notables as Jacqueline Onassis, Mr. Gerald Ford and Walter Cronkite. Not only are buttons constructed of an unlimited variety of materials, size and color, but every button is unconditionally guaranteed to come equipped with precision-ground holes especially adapted for easy attachment to your garment.

TREAT YOURSELF TO A TOOTHBRUSH! Constructed of the finest plastic polymers and fitted with precision-cut nylon bristles, a toothbrush will fit any size mouth, any configeration of tooth. Enjoy the confident feeling that you will be ministering to your teeth with the same instrument that is used by famous athletes, celebrated stage personalities, even by the President of the United States.

Mild Weather Brings Problems

Prolonged mild fall weather without killing black frosts are lovely for sheer enjoyment but bring complications for plants unless the gardener knows what to do about the situation. It's all very well to have things blooming out of season, but what effect does this have on the plants?

Delphiniums producing new flowering stems, carnations and border pinks with a new crop of fat buds, and plentiful new shoots already visible at the base of Maltese-cross (Lychnis chalcedonica) and the little dwarf Geum borisii — alll this adds up to good publicity for the marvellous climate of this end of Vancouver Island. These and many other perennials have little true dormancy in our normal years, and this probably accounts for easterners telling us that they have better flower production on these same plants.

There is one way to curtail delphinium activity and thus channel the strength of the plants towards the roots and storage of nutrients for next spring's growth.

Since good flowers have less than an even chance of being seen outdoors in November, we shall be wise to cut down the lengthening stems to near ground level. Don't damage leaf growth at the base; remove only the lengthening flower stem. A handful of bonemeal around each plant now will be useful in early spring when these fine garden plants begin their growth. They need a rich soil to give their best. Bonemeal is a slow acting fertilizer, not completely available as food until 10 to 12 weeks after application.

The dianthus is another genus which makes new flowering stems in late summer into fall. They persist regardless of cool weather and sometimes open a little during warm spells in November.

We love the fragrance of the carnations and other pinks (all are of the dianthus genus) but their flowering in this cool weather saps much of their strength. The remedy is to cut off the stems with buds, taking their full length down to the base. Don't cut away the leaves which make the plant rosette at ground level.

Some gardeners talk about "cutting down" their carnations but this is too drastic a term. Only the late formed buds and their stems are to be taken off.

The dwarf Geum borisii, a fine bright orange, is insistent about its flower buds and you need to inspect the plants often for removal now. Even so, some escape the eye and you have a few gorgeous blossoms to put into a bowl of green moss in the house.

We cannot cover our perennials with mulching material for winter in this climate; for they would rot away with moisture and lack of air. They would be composted in other words. We can, however, curtail some of their exuberance in fall. The result is a stronger start in spring because of building a larger root system. The benefit is perhaps most noticed in the carnations and pinks; the plants next year will be more compact, less likely to be straggling, and therefore better able to produce good blooms.

While the weather is still not bad enough to keep us indoors, these small attentions will be rewarded in future plant performance.

Lost Language Key Discovered

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet scientists have discovered 18th century writings which could reconstruct the lost language and vanished traditions of the Indian tribes of Alaska and the Canadian Pacific coast, Tass said today.

Unpublished notes, diaries and letters of Russian explorers of the late 18th and early 19th centuries have been unearthed in the archives of the Academy of Sciences of the USSR, according to the reports.

The travellers were employed by the Russian-American Company and talked with chiefs of Indian tribes.

The agency said the writings "are considered by Soviet scientists as the key to reconstructing the vanished cultural traditions, customs and language" of the tribes.

The documents contain much information about tribes from the Athapaskan group — Ingalik, Tanaina and Atna — who lived in a vast area between the Yukon and the Oceanic coast, it added.

Travellers named Ivan Vasilyev, Vasily Ivanov, Pyotr Korsakovsky and others described in detail the economic system, customs and beliefs of Indians then encountering European civilization, according to Tass.

It said: "Particularly valuable, in the opinion of specialists are dictionaries and comparative tables of the Athapaskan languages compiled by the explorers. They contain a great number of long-lost words and phrases which will help trace the historic evolution of the Indian language."

DIGGERS STRIKE, BODIES ON ICE

VANCOUVER (CP) — A grave diggers' strike, now in its fourth week, has resulted in an indefinite delay in the burial of between 50 and 60 bodies, a spokesman for the two affected cemeteries said Monday.

The strike has affected burials at Forest Lawn and Ocean View burial parks in Burnaby which handle about 20 per cent of the funerals in the lower mainland.

Robert Clarke, president of Forest Lawn, said the bodies scheduled for burial are being held in cold storage until the strike ends.

Twenty-five employees of Forest Lawn, which operates both parks, went on strike a month ago for a 50-per-cent wage increase. They are members of local 602 of the construction and general laborers union.

Clarke said the pickets are not interfering with persons wishing to visit graves at the two cemeteries.

'Symbolic Cut' Only In Arab Oil Prices

RABAT — Saudi Arabia has told other Arab oil states it wants a "symbolic cut" in world petroleum prices but plans no unilateral action, a Saudi official said today.

His disavowal of a unilateral cut in Saudi Arabia's price of approximately $11.65 a barrel contrasted to a report in the New York Times.

The newspaper reported that an informed Arab source said the per-barrel price of Saudi oil will be lowered next week by less than $1.

As the world's largest oil exporter, Saudi Arabia theoretically can force down all oil prices with a unilateral cut.

The Saudi official said his delegation to the Arab summit conference here proposed a cut of "much less than 10 per cent and rather a symbolic reduction in prices" Monday during a closed general review of the world oil situation.

However, other sources said Saudi Arabia indicated it wants to drop prices by as much as 10 per cent. The plan was reported to have run into vigorous opposition from Algeria, which is not a major producer but has held a hard line in opposition to lower prices.

The Saudi official said his government assured the other producers it will accept the decision of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries OPEC and will take no unilateral action.

The Saudi action follows a threat from a Palestinian guerrilla leader that his group will take reprisals against any Arab country that reduces oil prices for the West.

Arab countries that "... make concession after concession to the Americans are also working for Israel," Nayef Hawatmeh, leader of the Popular Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine, said at a public rally in Beirut.

"We will not hesitate to open a new front inside the territory of countries that reduce (oil) prices" to help international capitalism, newspapers quote Hawatmeh as saying. Also at the Arab summit conference in Rabat Monday, Jordan's King Hussein reluctantly agreed to let Palestinian commandos assume full responsibility for the future of Palestinians living on the Israeli-occupied West Bank of the Jordan.

The decision at the end of more than a week's wrangling constituted a severe defeat for U.S. Secretary-of-State Henry Kissinger, who had counted on Hussein to negotiate any West Bank deal with Israel.

Union Planned Quebec Gov't Takeover

MONTREAL (CP) — A construction inquiry was told Monday of a union plan to call a general strike in Quebec with the ultimate possibility of a union takeover of the provincial government.

Andre Renauld, a self-avowed union muscleman and police informer, told the provincial inquiry into construction union freedoms that a senior union official expressed the possibility last year of calling a general strike "causing an economic crisis, the eventual overthrow of the government and a possible union takeover of the government."

Renauld, former business agent with Local 791 of the International Union of Operating Engineers (IUOE) affiliated with the Quebec Federation of Labor (QFL), said the union official felt this could only be done if the QFL got complete control of three vital sectors—construction, transportation and energy.

Judge Robert Cliche, head of the three-man inquiry, ordered the name of the QFL union official withheld.

Renauld, now serving time for armed robbery, also said the QFL union executive knew that "100 per cent" of their stewards on construction sites were not working.

He said when he suggested during a union meeting that something should be done about the situation, one senior official told him:

"You're crazy . . . we have no intention of changing anything."

Renauld, now in his second day of testimony, told the inquiry he made $50,000 or more a year including money construction contractors paid him to ignore violations to the government decree regulating the construction industry.

Renauld said contractors paid him so he would not report, among other things, that they were violating the decree by not providing adequate safety measures for the workers.

"Without exaggeration," he said. "I could have made an easy $100,000 a year as a business agent, without resorting to extortion."

He named 13 contractors with whom such "deals existed.

The commission ordered that subpeoneas be issued to the various contractors involved to present themselves before the inquiry with all pertinent documents.

Commission lawyer, Jean-Luc Dutil, said Renauld's testimony would be corroborated by other witnesses at the inquiry.

COOLANTS CAN CAUSE DAMAGE

OTTAWA (CP) — Some automobile engine coolants currently being marketed can damage the engines of newer models, the consumer affairs department said.

Cooling systems in recently-produced cars are designed for use of coolants consisting essentially of ethylene glycol and water, a department statement said.

But because of a worldwide shortage of ethylene, products consisting of mixtures of alcohols and glycols as well as petroleum distillates and solutions of calcium chloride were being marketed.

Depending on engine design, temperature and other operating factors, some of the alcohol products may boil with consequent overheating and damage to the engine, the department said.

Petroleum distillate products might adversely affect some radiator hoses and present a fire hazard if they leak.

Water solutions consisting only of calcium chloride might corrode aluminum engine blocks and damage car radiators.

The release said the department is investigating products which may present fire hazards and unnecessary safety risks discovered will be tackled under the Hazardous products Act.

Meanwhile, automobile owners are urged to check their car manuals for information on recommended engine coolants and to read carefully the labels of engine coolant products before buying.

VANCOUVER — Recently appointed director of development for amateur baseball in British Columbia, Wayne Norton has announced his first major project.

Norton, 31, a former professional player, will conduct a clinic for coaches at Simon Fraser University on Jan. 11 with assistance from four members of Oakland Athletics, the World Series champions.

CARS BOUNCED OFF WALLS

Neither man could have known of the swirling, water-heavy tornado which was churning at the tunnel's mouth.

Hines was killed when his car was snatched up and hurled over a 20-foot concrete wall. He may never have known what happened.

Four other persons were injured, but Wehba escaped unscathed — an accomplishment he is unable to explain.

"I don't know how I didn't get hurt, I swear to God," said Wehba, 32, of nearby Pasadena, Tex., after jumping from his battered truck.

"I was about 20 feet out of the tunnel entrance when it caught me and turned me sideways and over.

"I remember skidding along on the roof of my truck in a spray of sparks. I could smell gas and just knew the thing was going to blow up," he said.

"The tornado was full of water and it picked up 12 cars and threw them against each other and against the walls at the entrance to the tunnel," said Department of Public Safety Patrolman Bobby Williams.

"It sloshed them cars around pretty good."

A tunnel guard said the twister transformed the tunnel into "a big vacuum cleaner."

The tornado was one of many to hit Texas Monday. It closed the tunnel for three hours while workmen washed out pools of gasoline. Four persons were injured in the Houston area and five Baytown homes were damaged.

Galveston received 1.25 inches of rain in a 10-minute period, causing many of the island streets to flood.

Another tornado hit the Beaumont area in the southeast corner of Texas, damaging a service station and several homes. No other injuries were reported.

Winery Warned At Trial

BORDEAUX, France (UPI) — A foreign customer of accused fraudulent Bordeaux wine sellers testified today that their trial will cripple sales of Bordeaux and all other French wines throughout the world.

A Dutch wine merchant, who has purchased wine for years from the Cruse brothers, among 18 defendants in the trial for wine faking, lamented that "after this affair it will be very difficult for my house, and for all the others, to further popularize the wines of Bordeaux and all the wines of France."

The Dutchman, introduced in the court as Mr. Wervordt of Tilbourg, Netherlands, testified with four other foreign wine buyers from England, Puerto Rico, Belgium and Switzerland. They all said that "the wines of the Cruse brothers firm are excellent. They are serious wines and the quality is fine."

Judge Pierre Lief asked the Swiss, a Mr. Donzay, "How do you prove the authenticity of the Bordeaux wines delivered to you?"

The Swiss wine dealer replied, "How can you prove they are not authentic?"

Government inspectors have said when they broke into the Cruse warehouses in 1973 to search for suspected wine faking they found carbonate of chalk and activated coal in the Cruse vats.

The defendants are charged with taking cheap wine from the Languedoc area of southern France, doctoring it with chemicals and marketing it in the traditional short-necked Bordeaux bottles under such prestigious labels as Saint Emilion and Pomerol.

The Paris newspaper Le Monde editorialized that "the one thing we have gained from this boring trial is to look for this wine seller in the Languedoc who sells for less than" 50 cents a quart "a little wine that is so good that the finest Bordeaux palates take it for a Saint Emilion or Pomerol."

B.C. Telephone Services Have Deteriorated—Expert

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Telephone Co. services have sharply deteriorated since 1972, a communications expert told a Canadian Transport Commission hearing here Monday.

Peter Niblock, head of Hoyles Niblock Associates Ltd., told the commission's telecommunications committee that a province-wide test of the company's services Oct. 16 showed, in one area, a three-fold worsening of services.

The tests, sponsored by the B.C. attorney-general, consisted of 1,750 calls placed throughout the province to points in Quebec, Ontario, Alberta and within B.C. itself.

Niblock said that any call not answered by the operator within 30 seconds (six rings) was judged to have failed. The allowance of six rings was three times the lattitude the company permitted itself when assessing performance in 1971.

Tests in the B.C. Lower Mainland, which has been 70 and 75 per cent of B.C. Tel's subscribers, showed that 22 of every 100 long-distance calls placed were not answered by B.C. Tel operators within the alloted period.

Niblock added that long-distance failed to gain an operator response 27 times out of every 100 attempts.

B.C. Tel's 1971 submission to the CTC stated only 12.9 per cent of calls went unanswered after more than 10 seconds.

Niblock said the recent study indicates wide uniformity in poor service, and said the results show "an emerging picture" of a shortage of circuits related to direct-dialed long-distance calls in certain Vancouver exchanges.

When accuracy of the study's results was challenged by Peter Butler, counsel for the company, Niblock agreed to compare his findings with those of B.C. Tel and said he would answer further cross-examination.

During the hearing, Niblock referred to guidelines for the U.S. issued by the National Association of Regulatory Utility Commissioners. He said American companies were expected to take remedial action when more than eight per cent of long-distance calls were failures, and were urged to add extra circuits when more than five per cent of the calls fail to connect due to overloading of available circuits.

$1.3M Corrections Grant

The provincial cabinet has approved a $1.3 million grant for the B.C. corrections branch of the attorney-general's department to fund experimental term projects and volunteer programs.

Approved by cabinet order, the funds will be used to establish a grant-making agency within the corrections branch.

Experimental programs designed by the branch and agencies already working in corrective areas, will be one of the priorities. Money will also be used to co-ordinate an increasing number of volunteer programs and community correction centres.

Also approved by order-in-council is a $500,000 grant to the Ocean Engineering Centre in Vancouver for construction of a testing facility and addition to the B.C. Research Institute.

The money will be used to fund the testing of hulls and for research into marine technology.

Man Held For Seven Break-Ins

A 26-year-old man arrested early this morning has been charged with seven break-ins in Oak Bay and two in Victoria dating back more than nine months.

William Roy Turner of 1157 Johnson, appeared in Victoria provincial court and was remanded in custody to Wednesday when an application for bail is expected to be made.

Oak Bay police said officers questioned a man at 11:45 p.m. Monday and noted his belt buckle was missing.

Two hours later, while investigating break-ins at the Golden Galleon Cafe, 2239 Oak Bay, and Casey's Bakery, 2032 Oak Bay, they discovered a belt buckle on the floor.

A police spokesman said the cafe and bakery had been broken into seven times since February.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

A $300 fine was given a 25-year-old man in provincial court Monday for an assault described by Ostler as an "indefensible surprise attack."

Barry Timmons, now of Comox but formerly of Esquimalt, was found guilty of assault causing bodily harm July 18.

Fred Abromeit, 24, of 912 Carlton Terrace, the victim of the assault, fell about 15 feet to the ground after going through a picture window. He told the court Timmons had pushed him. Timmons denied it.

Abromeit received a cut finger and ankle.

Court was told the dispute started when Timmon's wife parked in a space used by Abromeit. After Abromeit had parked his car to block hers, Mrs. Timmons' only way out was to drive over a lawn.

Timmons then received a phone call from his wife, went to Abromeit's apartment and "barged in" swinging as Abromeit backed away. He fell, either from a blow or from tripping over a chair.

Abromeit got up, backed away again and fell through a picture window. He had grabbed Timmon's shirt before he went through the window, otherwise "there might have been a tragedy," Judge William Ostler said.

The judge said there was no suggestion the accused is anything but "an exemplary citizen . . . an upstanding young Canadian citizen" who regretfully lost his temper.

A 22-year-old man received a $400 fine and was put on probation for six months after he pleaded guilty to taking a car without the owner's consent.

Lloyd Victor Harris, 1005 Balmoral, was also banned from driving for six months.

Harris asked two friends Oct. 5 for assistance in "hot wiring" the car, which was parked in front of its owner's house.

He told them the car was his, but that his brother had the keys.

Judge William Ostler said he wondered whether a jail sentence should be imposed, and noted Harris had a previous conviction in 1971 for the same offence.

In traffic court, Dorothea Archibald, 37, of 111 McKenzie was fined $400 and banned from driving for 20 months for impaired driving Jan. 7, 1973, and was fined another $325 and banned four months for impaired driving Dec. 19, 1972.

Wendy Patricia Irving, 20, of Cobble Hill, was fined $875 and banned from driving for five months for impaired driving, and, for the same offence, Walter James Flewin, 27, of 931 Cloverdale, was fined $300 and banned from driving for two months.

Stephen Granger, 25, of 1080 Belmont, and Gordon Joseph Marsh, 24, of 1672 Ross, were each fined $275 and banned from driving for a month for driving with a blood-alcohol level of more than .08 per cent.

Shots Kill Man, Wife

Police said the shooting occurred during a family dispute. The 48-year-old man was pronounced dead at the scene and the woman, also 48, was dead on arrival at Royal Columbian Hospital in New Westminster 90 minutes later.

Identities have not been released.

LISBON (Reuter) — The Portuguese Communist party's clandestine radio station has suspended broadcasts after 12 years on the air, the party newspaper Avante reports.

LUMBER JOB LOSS NOT SO BAD—KING

PORT ALBERNI (CP) — Unemployment in the forest industry as a result of poor markets is not as bad as some indicate, says Labor Minister Bill King.

King told the Port Alberni and District Labor Council that some laid-off lumber workers are finding employment in industries suffering from manpower shortages.

Acute manpower shortages on the prairies might also absorb some of the laid-off workers, he said.

Gov't Clean-Up Needed—Loggers

The provincial government could boost the slumping lumber industry in B.C. by cleaning up its administration of forest policy, a representative of the B.C. Truck Loggers Association said Monday.

Ian Mahood said there is no need to legislate a solution to the industries problems, "when the majority of things we're talking about are in the housekeeping realm."

He made the comment after a two-hour meeting between an association delegation and Resources Minister Bob Williams and Premier Barrett.

"The problem is in the last four or five years our civil service staffs have increased and there are other government departments involved in making decisions on timber sale applications.

"There is a push and pull between government departments and a great deal of delays and difficulties in reaching decisions internally in an administration."

Resources Minister Williams said the meeting was productive."

"There are areas of frustration we can deal with in real, solid, economic terms, but the root of the problems is the world market," he said, adding "new ground rules" are necessary in every aspect of the industry

"It is more a question of maintaining the present production levels throughout the winter and modifications are necessary to ensure even that."

The minister said in changing the price of wood chips paid to smaller sawmills in the province "we can change the economics of the sawmill sector."

Some representatives of the sawmill industry, he said, feel that government intervention is justified, but "we've got quite a bit of homework done and it'll be up to cabinet."

MD Sues Hospital

CALGARY (CP) — The head of the psychiatric department at Calgary General Hospital Monday filed a $60,000 lawsuit against the hospital over his firing by the hospital board of directors because of what the board said were "irreconcilable differences."

Dr. Cecil Mickelson was fired last summer and will leave his job Thursday. He said earlier Monday he would probably accept a job in Ontario.

E. H. Knight, administrator of the hospital, said the sum is roughly equivalent to 18 months salary.

Dog Man Wins Two Weeks

CALGARY (CP) — The Alberta Supreme Court has given George Woodward of Didsbury, until Nov. 9 to move himself and his estimated 90 cross-breed dogs off a rented farm.

Mr. Justice H. J. Macdonald ruled Monday that the 64-year-old self-described dog breeder must vacate the farm owned by Doug Brander.

The court also awarded the landlord $150 in back rent as arrears and compensation.

Woodward was evicted last July 31 because Brander said the dogs had ruined the small frame house.

Woodward, who was forced to have about 50 dogs destroyed last year at a home near Edmonton, said the present array of small dogs would also be destroyed since he could not find suitable housing for them and himself.

A court-appointed lawyer representing Woodward asked the courts to give Woodward a six-month delay in obeying the eviction order.

When the court refused he asked for a one-month delay, and finally had to settle for a two-week reprieve.

Mr. Justice Macdonald said "it doesn't matter whether he's got 10 dogs or 200 dogs. He's just saying I'm sorry, I've no right to be on the land but I've got to because I've got a lot of dogs."

The landlord said he wanted to move cattle onto the land but was afraid to because of the presence of the dogs.

Woodward said after his court appearance that he will try to find homes for his mongrel dogs but if he is unsuccessful he will have to have them put away.

He added that he hopes to find a piece of land near Edmonton and put down a down payment, probably using a trust fund established this week for him by a Toronto man whose life was saved by a dog.

Weather's Sneaky Punches Trims World Food Supply

WINNIPEG (CP) — A conference on the dilemmas of modern man was told Monday that the problem of feeding mankind has been aggravated by a world climate that is increasingly less hospitable, with greater vulnerability to extremes.

Dr. Kenneth Hare, a professor of geography and physics at the University of Toronto, said much of the world's best crop land is located in the dry or cold margins of the productive areas where climatic extremes — frost, flood and drought — are most dangerous.

"A good example hit our wheat production this year — a yield of 14 per cent below recent 10-year averages was caused by record late snowfall, late snowmelt and spring rains, coupled with early frost and snow in the harvest season."

He said there have been falterings in the upward movement of world food production, at a time when earth's population is pushing remorselessly up and when per capita demand is rising sharply because of the shift to meat eating in such countries as Russia and Japan

"Grain reserves have all but vanished, and we are at the end of a crop season that has seen sharp reductions in yield in the world's only abundant surplus granary, North America," said Dr. Hare, a former president of the University of British Columbia.

Charges Dismissed

EDMONTON (CP) — Charges of counselling the criminal offence of theft, laid against members of an Edmonton weekly underground newspaper, were dismissed Monday in provincial court.

Ross Harvey, Ann Harvey, Morgan Thomas and Kimbell Cariou, all executives of the Harvey G. Thomgirt Publishing Society which publishes the newspaper Poundmaker, were charged in connection with the parody of an anti-shoplifting advertisement that appeared in the local newspaper and a local news magazine.

Prisoner Deported

PRINCE ALBERT (CP) — Virgil Lane, a 63-year-old American who escaped from prison in Walla Walla, Wash., was deported Monday and will be handed over to police in the United States.

Charges of fraud and possession of stolen credit cards against Lane were dropped last week and he was ordered deported Friday.

Lane was arrested Oct. 1 near Prince Albert in a police roundup that also resulted in the capture of two other men, two women and two children.

Elevator for Lease

EDMONTON (CP) — The Canadian grain Commission is prepared to lease one of its six government elevators to the industry in an effort to see if they can be put to better use, chief commissioner Delmer Pound said Monday.

BOOKIE WORE UNIFORM

CALGARY (CP) — Patrons of an illegal betting house in Calgary got the shock of their lives during the weekend when they found themselves placing bets with city police morality squad members.

Police disclosed Monday they raided the betting house and seized about $15,000 in bets, ranging in size from $15 to $500.

The bets were placed on Canadian and American professional and college football, as well as professional hockey.

During the raid, police officers answered the ringing telephones and accepted the bets for the patrons.

Robert Grant Landon of Calgary was issued an appearance notice and will appear in court Nov. 14 for plea on charge of bookmaking.

VOTE FORCES WOMAN, 89, OUT

EDMONTON (CP) — City council voted Monday to expropriate the home of an 89-year-old widow, despite Ald. Ed Leger's warnings that the city may have to forcibly remove her.

Council gave third and final reading to a bylaw to expropriate Mildred Burke's home to make way for the construction of the Strathcona senior citizens' residence.

"Is this a death sentence we are placing on this woman?" Ald. Leger asked. "Will we have to go to the police and drag her out?

"... I understand she is very determined and is not prepared to get out."

Ald. Ed Kennedy was unimpressed by Leger's warning. "There are many other elderly citizens whose lives are affected," he said, referring to persons who need accommodation in a senior citizens' residence.

"They have been waiting an intolerably long time," he added.

Council was told the city has tried for about three years to obtain the property. There have been discussions with Mrs. Burke and the city has purchased another home several blocks away for $42,500 for her to live in.

City solicitor Harry Wilson said the value of the second home is "considerably in excess" of the value of Mrs. Burke's present home.

Premier Talks: No Specifics

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal officials say the prime minister is not expected to promote discussion of specific topics when he hosts a meeting with the premiers here Wednesday to discuss inflation and economic policies.

The federal view is that Prime Minister Trudeau is responding to a request for talks in general terms on how to lower inflation and unemployment rates.

The meeting comes after an acrid public exchange in September between the premiers and the prime minister on whether such a session would be useful.

Participants are giving a low-key advance billing to the afternoon of private conversation, which is to begin with a lunch, at Trudeau's residence.

A federal official said in a background report that one objective is to make sure the machinery for co-operation is in place.

It was the premiers who asked for the meeting. This was one of the results of the 15th annual premiers conference in Toronto in September.

They said they wanted a meeting before a new federal budget is brought down. The federal budget is due next month.

Trudeau, when questioned in Ottawa at that time, did not reject the request but was cool to the idea of a meeting to discuss inflation.

"They don't want to take tough measures themselves and so they are hoping Ottawa will," he observed.

Ontario Premier William Davis responded for the premiers with the tart comment that Trudeau's statement "hardly demonstrates the leadership we are seeking from the prime minister and the federal government."

DAVIS
. . . no leadership

The three westernmost provinces have been particularly angry with Ottawa for increasing the tax take from resource industries.

Proposals to increase the federal share of resource taxes were introduced in the May budget, on which the government was defeated, and there was little advance discussion on the subject with the provinces.

Changes in resource taxes are expected when the new budget is brought down and this time Finance Minister John Turner has held a series of talks with provincial ministers.

RECESSION SOON—DIEF

TORONTO (CP) — Former prime minister John Diefenbaker said Monday government spending is responsible for about 58 per cent of Canada's current inflation and the remainder may be attributed to foreign influence.

Diefenbaker, 79, told a news conference that the country appears headed toward a depression. "I think we are in a recession now . . ."

Farms First: Whelan

OTTAWA (CP) — Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan has suggested a boycott on the use of fertilizer for golf courses and family gardens to help hungry nations get the supplies they need to grow crops.

He told the Rotary Club here Monday that Canadians should help support Rome-based Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) efforts to buy fertilizer needed by Asian, African and Latin American countries.

The FAO has already collected $15 million to buy fertilizer, Whelan said. But it estimates a need for more than $1 billion "to do the complete job of providing just the minimum amount of fertilizer needed in India, Pakistan, Bangladesh, Africa and some Latin American countries."

Cash would do more good than a boycott of fertilizer used on golf courses and gardens, Whelan said.

"But that a boycott would be a help too, especially if we sent the cash we save to . . . the FAO in Rome."

Whelan said the world food shortage has reached a point where "the need is for outright gifts of food." Canada had increased its food aid program to about $733 million this year, including an extra $100 million for food aid and fertilizer.

No Escape for Margaret

OTTAWA (CP) — Margaret Trudeau will have to be reconciled to having a constant RCMP bodyguard, Solicitor-General Warren Allmand said Monday in an interview.

Allmand was commenting on a recent CTV interview in which Mrs. Trudeau said it was unfortunate she could not even go for a walk alone without being shadowed by two RCMP bodyguards.

He said he could understand her annoyance, "because everybody likes their privacy," but added that it was "one of the burdens that a person in this position has to endure."

The minister said the burden was "not a very pleasant one," but that unfortunate social possibilities, such as kidnapping, had to be considered and "if something went wrong, we would be severely at fault for not taking the ordinary precautions."

He said RCMP security recommendations are always discussed with and approved by the prime minister and his family, and that surveillance is always as discreet as possible.

FANS KEEP POLICE BUSY

Police said the game was called after 34 minutes when antagonistic crowds began throwing bottles, rocks and other objects onto the field to protest the way the game was being played.

Postal Boycott Denied

OTTAWA (CP) — There is "absolutely no evidence" of a postal workers' boycott of the postal code holding up mail delivery, Postmaster-General Bryce Mackasey said in the Commons Monday.

Otto Jelinek (PC—Toronto High Park-Humber Valley) had asked what the government was doing to end "the ongoing boycott," which he said is delaying mail.

In one case, he said, an envelope mailed in Toronto Sept. 25 did not arrive at its destination a few blocks away until Oct. 8.

Jelinek said there have been reports that post office employees have refused to use automatic equipment to help sort mail carrying the six-digit postal code.

PM 'Bag of Fog' On Europe Talks

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Trudeau met a hostile reaction Monday when he reported to the Commons on his just-concluded trip to France and Belgium.

"All we got today was a bag of fog," said Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield at the conclusion of an acid statement.

He and T. C. Douglas (NDP-Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands) strongly criticized the prime minister for not clarifying what he really sought in talks with leaders of the European Economic Community.

The prime minister said Canada seeks "ways of engaging the community in a dynamic, co-operative enterprise."

"We wish to add a new, yet parallel dimension to the expanding links we are already building with our partners among the nine member states . . ."

Stanfield said the government, after waiting for years to seek an arrangement with the economic community, made an unfortunate presentation that was not up to scratch and showed the government had not done its homework.

For years the Liberal government had neglected the economic community, creating the impression that it was not really interested in its affairs.

Douglas and Stanfield both praised the progress made in France-Canada relations on the prime minister's trip.

Douglas said the prime minister talked of trade and the development of Canadian natural resources.

He said Trudeau's remarks appeared to be an open invitation to use resources as bait to enlarge trading and attract investment.

Canada had followed that dangerous path with the United States.

Sick Girl Snips Ropes Saves Cash

By DEREK SIDENIUS
Times Staff

Eighteen-year-old Nancy Hemeon couldn't have picked a better day to be ill Monday.

Asleep in a second floor bedroom of her parent's elegant two-storey home at 753 Pemberton, she awoke to the cry of her mother yelling for her.

"I couldn't believe it. I thought she had been shot. I became almost hysterical," Nancy told the Times today.

Mrs. Hemeon cried out: "Go next door and call police — no wait, untie me first!"

The two ran to a neighbour's house where Mrs. Hemeon phoned her husband, Roger, Manager of the Royal Bank of Canada, at 1108 Government. Too Late. He'd left. She contacted Victoria police and related to them what had happened.

At about 2:10 p.m. Monday the mother of seven had answered a knock at the back door and found two men wearing ski masks and sun glasses — one pointing a gun at her, thd other a dagger.

She said they ordered her to "get back".

"At first I thought it was a joke," she said today. "But it only took 30 seconds before I realized they meant business."

The gunmen asked her name, where her husband was, and whether anyone else was home.

Thinking quickly she replied she was alone — three of her children were at school, another two at work, a seventh lives on his own.

She said she didn't tell them about Nancy.

"I didn't put up any fight because I didn't want to wake her . . . I knew she would panic and be more of a hindrance than a help."

The gunman forced her to call her husband at the bank. "Speak to no one else," he warned. He then took the phone and told Hemeon to place $30,000 in small bills in a bag, drive to UVic's Centennial Stadium parking lot, walk away and leave the package on the front seat of his car.

"We'll give you half an hour — do as we say or your wife will get it," he added.

Hemeon did as he was told.

The men cut the telephone wire, then tied Mrs. Hemeon's wrists and ankles with fibreglas tape they brought and placed an elastic bandage over her mouth.

"They were going to put me in a hall cupboard but I said it was too small and probably I wouldn't fit."

They carried her instead into a den off the kitchen. The gag slipped off but they didn't stop to put it back on. They shut the door and went out back telling her not to move because someone would be watching her.

She said later she didn't believe them and that when they had gone out she wiggled her way across the floor.

"Fortunately when they closed the door the latch didn't click. I couldn't have got out if it had. I got my fingers under the door and inched it open."

She flopped her way to the bottom of the staircase and screamed for Nancy who was sound asleep.

"I could hear her calling in the distance," Nancy said. "I knew by the sound of her voice something was wrong."

Mrs. Hemeon said if Nancy hadn't been at home she wouldn't have been able to get free.

"This house is an old one, well built and with thick walls. I don't think anyone could have heard me outside."

Nancy, who works as a bank teller, said it was "a miracle" she was at home.

"I never, never get sick. But Monday when I woke up I just couldn't got to work. I was really, really tired."

Victoria police said they got the call from Mrs. Hemeon at 2:40 p.m. and were at the scene of the drop-off within minutes

"They were so quick they were probably there before the men arrived," Mrs. Hemeon said. "From our place to the university is a good 15-minute drive."

The money hadn't been taken from the Hemeon car.

Police from Victoria, Saanich and Oak Bay set up a stake-out but called it off at 4:30 p.m. Fearing the men may return, an officer spent the night inside the Hemeon home and patrols in the area were stepped up.

Police described the men as 5'6" to 5'7" tall and probably in their early 20s. They were wearing blue jeans and running shoes. One wore a beige coat, the other a denim coat.

Vancouver Church Razed

VANCOUVER (CP) — A historic Vancouver landmark was lost today when fire destroyed St. John's United Church at 1401 Comox. The spectacular blaze was fought by more than 100 firemen using 14 pieces of equipment.

Only the stone walls and the steeple remained surrounding the gutted ruins of the church interior as firemen mopped up.

Damage was estimated at about $1 million by C. I. Colwell, chairman of the church board. This included a pipe organ installed in 1907 valued at $60,000 and a wrought iron rail around the balcony valued at $100,000.

Colwell said the church was only insured at one-half to three-quarter of its total value.

The fire began about 2 a.m. and when firemen first arrived on the scene it was only a two-alarm blaze.

More equipment was called in as the fire spread. By the height of the blaze, when flames engulfed nearly all of the roof and interior, it was a five-alarm fire.

The fire was under control by 4:30 a.m.

Cause of the fire is unknown.

VANCOUVER CRACKDOWN

17 Held in Drug Swoop

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCMP launched a major narcotics crackdown in Vancouver overnight, and warrants were issued for the arrest of 25 persons, some of them alleged to be major figures in the international drug trade, officials here said today.

Seventeen of those named were surprised in their homes and police are looking for the other eight.

One RCMP official said the 25 represent a "high-powered" group. He said RCMP action will have great impact on the illicit flow of drugs through Vancouver from the Orient.

The "bust" is the latest in a series of actions over the last two months which has seen the seizure of drugs worth between $4.5 million and $5 million on the illicit market, officials said.

The RCMP said warrants were issued at the end of an undercover operation directed at "high level" drug trafficking. A young constable working undercover bought a considerable quantity of heroin, cocaine and opium, the officials said.

The operation started in June. Police said the operation Monday night uncovered three pounds two ounces, plus 256 one-fix caps of heroin, worth about $500,000 on the street; one pound seven ounces and five spoons of cocaine worth $39,000; and two pounds one gram of opium worth about $1,200.

The news of the RCMP action comes a week after narcotics enforcement representatives from France, Canada and the United States meeting here made note of the increase in drug traffic through Vancouver.

The representatives and RCMP officials said that Oriental trade has grown since Turkey cut off the major source of opium — the base for heroin — by stopping farmers from growing it.

The oriental heroin flowed through Vancouver and other North American ports and through Amsterdam in Europe.

Police said some of the drugs arriving in Vancouver were for markets elsewhere in Canada and the United States. But they also said it was natural for narcotics to flow into Vancouver because between 60 and 70 per cent of Canadian addicts live in British Columbia.

RCMP officials estimate there are 16,000 to 19,000 addicts in Canada at present.

TRAINER with leashed police dog patrols the grounds outside The Hague's Scheveningen Prison today where four armed convicts are in the fourth day of a siege with 16 hostages. Monday night, they freed an 11-year-old boy, the last of four children being held. Today the men demanded a plane to fly them to freedom.

U.S. Index Signals 'Bad Times'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. commerce department said today the index of leading economic indicators suffered its worst plunge in 23 years last month.

"The index seems to be delivering a message, a signal that bad times are ahead," a department economist said.

The index, which measures the progress of eight sectors of the American economy ranging from unemployment to stock market prices, dropped 2.5 per cent from August to September. It was the sharpest monthly plunge since 2.9 per cent in June, 1951.

The September index showed that unemployment increased, manufacturers' orders for appliances and other durable goods declined, stock prices and building permits fell and the prices for industrial materials were lower.

In addition, Manufacturers placed orders for new equipment which could not be delivered and the ratio of prices to labor costs increased.

He said the September decline was largely due to the falling stock market in September but the market recovered in October.

But a department economist said the "general decline in indicators suggests that there is an overwhelming indication that further declines in economic activity are ahead."

2-TONE HORN AMBULANCE

the two-tone horn used on emergency vehicles in Europe has been adopted by the British Columbia Emergency Health Serviees Commission for the provincial ambulance fleet.

Dr. Peter Ransford, the commission's executive director, said today use of the two-tone klaxon has been reserved by the motor vehicles branch for exclusive use of ambulances.

There are two advantages to a distinctive sound for emergency vehicles, he suggested. It will tell people an ambulance is coming and provide a less terrifying sound than the traditional siren for patients carried in ambulances.

Industry Takeovers For U.K.

LONDON (CP) — The Labor government announced plans today to nationalize key British industries, including aircraft construction and shipbuilding. It also said it intends to increase government participation in North Sea oil development.

The plans were announced in the speech from the throne, read at the opening of Parliament by the Queen.

No timetable was announced for the nationalization program. The Labor government obtained a majority in winning the Oct. 10 election and might stay in power as long as five years.

The government also announced that laws will be introduced to take over community ownership of land required for development, to safeguard tourists against failure of travel firms, and to end sex discrimination.

The government also said it intends to hold a referendum within 12 months so the British people can decide whether they want Britain to remain in the European Common Market.

Intensive security precautions were in force as the Queen drove from Buckingham Palace to the House of Commons to read the speech. Hundreds of mounted and foot police lined the Queen's route in the tightest security many observers recalled in the British capital.

The government also announced plans to set up a National Enterprise Board to extend state participation in the private sector of industry, and to set up assemblies for Scotland and Wales.

Surrey Man Shot

SURREY (CP) — Surrey RCMP said they are searching for a suspect and a number of accomplices in the shooting death of a 22-year-old man today.

The victim was shot at about 12:40 a.m. His name has not been released. Police said they suspect the shooting followed an altercation in a hotel parking lot.

CABINET AIDES' WAGES UP 10%

Salary increases of just over 10 per cent have been granted to provincial government employees appointed by the cabinet.

Granted Monday, the increases mean the average executive assistant to a minister will make more than $19,000, and heads of several government boards will get more than $43,000.

Increases were also given to secretaries to cabinet ministers, MLAs and opposition caucuses.

Standard salary for a ministerial executive assistant will be $19,465, up from $17,628; administrative assistants will receive $23,710 a year, up from $21,500; and heads of the Labor Relations Board, the Law Reform Commission and the Police Commission will get $43,055 a year, up from $39,000.

The Social Credit administrative assistant, Dan Campbell, will be paid $19,465 and Liberal assistant, Gerry Kristianson will get $14,425.

GRAIN MEN OFF 'SICK' AGAIN TODAY

Bill Longmuir of the Canadian Grain Commission said most of the 48 West Coast inspectors had called in sick.

The bookoff comes only two weeks after Parliament ended the seven-week grainhandlers' dispute.

Victoria's two grain inspectors have not joined the bookoffs and were on the job Monday and today.

Nixon 'Stable' After Surgery

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Former president Nixon underwent emergency surgery Tuesday after discovery of a new blood clot endangering his life and doctors said afterwards their insertion of a clip on a vein in his groin should overcome the danger permanently.

The 61-year-old Nixon was described as "doing well" and in "stable" condition after an operation of about an hour starting at 5:30 a.m. by five doctors at Long Beach Memorial Hospital.

The "urgent surgery" was ordered Monday night, with Nixon's agreement, by his personal physician, Dr. John Lungren, when a new test showed another clot in the left leg above those found before and closer to the vena cava which leads directly to the heart.

4-Cent Hike Seen In Milk Prices

Price of a quart of milk will likely rise four cents in Victoria next week, partially because of the removal of a federal subsidy to milk producers.

Increased production costs of raw milk and packaging materials are also a factor, said Neil Gray, assistant general manager of the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association.

The federal government's five-cent-a-quart subsidy is being removed in stages, with two cents now, two cents in January and the rest before the end of February, said Gray

More increases in retail rates can be expected in 1974 then, he said.

Meanwhile, the Retail Council of Canada has advised grocery stores that they are under no obligation to pass on to consumers a 24-cent-a-pound federal skim milk powder subsidy, council spokesman Alistair Smith said Monday.

In a telephone interview from Toronto, Smith said retailers have been told they "run the risk of a certain amount of government criticism" if they refuse to pass on the subsidy.

But there was no law requiring them to sell at set prices simply because of the government subsidy program.

Under the year-old program, the government makes payments to processors who keep their prices from rising. Processors, in turn, are asked to make sure the lower prices are passed on to consumers

Circled Maps May Mark Grisly Death Trail

VANCOUVER (CP) — Detectives on both sides of the border today are trying to piece together evidence in what they fear may be a grisly trail of sex murders stretching from B.C. and the western U.S. to Minnesota.

Minneapolis officials said a suspect, held in lieu of $250,000 bail, is charged with kidnapping, attempted murder and an unnatural sex act with a 19-year-old woman, five offences against a 13-year-old girl and aggravated assault on a 17-year-old "for now."

Maps seized in Seattle and Minneapolis in connection with the arrest of a 47-year-old man in Minneapolis have police working on the theory that circles drawn on them could indicate where the bodies of victims are buried.

There are more than 200 places marked on Washington and Minnesota state highway maps.

"We're trying to place the man in B.C.," said Staff-Sgt. Fred Bondaruk, head of the RCMP's special murder squad, who spent six days last week working with the Hennepin County sheriff's office in Minneapolis.

"We know he's been through Vancouver and parts of the province, and we want to determine the exact times and places."

The man, described by one Seattle detective as "a brutal savage," is under investigation for at least two murders in the Minneapolis area.

In both the B.C. and Minnesota killings, the victims were sexually assaualted before they were bludgeoned to death. However, Bonkaruk said no circled maps of B.C. have been found.

The man, who has spent more than 20 years in U.S. prisons, had been sentenced to death after admitting the rape and murder of a 57-year-old woman in Anchorage in 1949. But the conviction was

Les Breaks Rules To Push Housing

Down and out?

Ald. Les Passmore of Saanich showed Monday night he's not to be kept down although he's on his way out.

Passmore threw parliamentary procedures to the winds when, in the absence of Mayor Ed Lum, he presided at a public hearing.

The public hearing was on five rezoning items, three of which were applications to rezone single-family property to allow duplexes.

Passmore, who is retiring this year after 33 years on council, refused to accept the parliamentary requirement that a chairman adopt a role of neutrality, using his position instead to drive home the point that housing—or lack of it—is one of the most critical problems facing society today.

He lectured residents who opposed the duplexes.

He told one man, who claimed "only Saanich is living in the 1800s" and called for money to be spent on getting rid of open ditches, providing roads and other services, instead of the extra police and fire protection required by a rising population:

"You can't live in a storm sewer. You have to have a house to live in."

Passmore continued to lecture the opposing residents and asked them why renters were so often considered "second-class citizens."

When told he was out of order by some of the residents, Passmore retorted he knew he was—"But I'm also a humanitarian."

He persisted, even after Ald. Sandy Noel also cautioned he was out of order and Ald. Mel Couvelier told him:

"You're usurping the privilege of the chair. I really must protest."

Passmore, still bent on his battle for more housing, said he was quite prepared to take any reprimand.

"I'm quite prepared to accept it," he said.

75-Year-Old Adrift For 3 Days

By PAT DUFOUR
Times Staff

"I'm bloody lucky to be rescued."

There was no mincing of words when Bill Bohler, 75, a commercial fisherman from Prince Rupert, was contacted by the Times today.

Resting up at Miner's Bay on Mayne Island in Active Pass, the elderly fisherman was rescued Monday after being tossed around for three days in the Gulf of Georgia, his 33-foot troller out of fuel and water from a leak in the Solo's stern sloshing through his cabin.

Bohler was making his way from Prince Rupert to Vancouver when he ran out of fuel off Point Atkinson, outside Vancouver harbor.

He was sighted 12:50 p.m. Monday by lighthouse keeper Jack Ruck of Georgina Point lighthouse on the northern tip of Mayne Island.

"It was quite rough," Ruck said. "The wind was blowing 25 miles an hour. He had a sea anchor out and he was tossing about pretty good."

Ruck said the fishboat was three miles northeast of the island when he first sighted her, being tossed about in six-foot waves.

Ruck alerted the Pacific Rescue Co-ordination Centre and by 1:10 p.m. the destroyer-escort HMCS Mackenzie was on the scene.

Her commander, Cmdr. Richard Donaldson, sent a workboat over the side. Three of the boat's crew went aboard Solo with enough fuel to get her into Sturdies Bay, across from Miner's Bay.

By this time, the coastguard hovercraft from Vancouver arrived and escorted Solo into a berth at Miner's Bay.

Steve Williams of Springwater Lodge in Miner's Bay, said Bohler was "pretty shaken" Monday night but by the time he came up to the lodge for breakfast today he was in good form.

For three days Bohler had been unable to eat.

"I couldn't even cook," he said. "It was too rough. The battery was low and I couldn't even get through on the phone."

Was he sure of his whereabouts?

Bohler admitted he had no chart on board.

Williams said, "The coast guard people roasted him (Bohler) pretty good when they found he had no chart."

He added. "To have no chart, no power and no food and to be out there in that weather must have been a pretty harrowing experience."

A navy spokesman said Bohler was also using the wrong frequency on his radio, one that worked in the Prince Rupert area but not here.

Bohler is now waiting for a pump to arrive to dry out his leaking craft. He said he would have to recaulk the stern in order to get her seaworthy again.

ONE DEAD IN CRASH

A Port Alberni man was killed, another injured and a Victorian escaped injury when a station wagon collided with a semi-trailer truck on the Trans-Canada Highway three miles north of Mill Bay Monday evening.

John Gordon Taylor, 31, is dead and Robert Hewson, 36, also of Port Alberni, is in Cowichan District Hospital after the accident, which occurred at 7:20 p.m.

Driver of the semi-trailer was Thomas Copeland, 55, of 2852 Wyndeatt, Victoria, who suffered no injury.

Hewson was driving the car south when the accident occurred, police said.

'Sabotage' Charged In Board Formation

By PETER MEDWID
Times Staff

Two ratepayer association presidents "deliberately sabotaged" an attempt to form a community resource board in the Colwood - Langford - Metchosin area, Rev. David Stiven, chairman of a steering committee investigating the idea, charged today.

Stiven claims Shirley Wilde, president of the Albert Head Ratepayers Association, "effectively stopped the community from learning anything about the human resources program.

"It was a deliberate attempt to sabotage the whole deal."

The meeting in the Belmont Fisher high school auditorium on Jacklin Road was attended by about 100.

Stiven's committee was formed last April to study the formation of a resource board for the area. The boards are intended to look into all human resources programs and to make recommendations to the provincial government on existing and possible programs.

Jack Waterman, president of the Metchosin Ratepayers Association said all he tried to do was to have the committee "dissociate Metchosin" from an community board.

Stivens admitted the two groups — Albert Head and Metchosin — do have legitimate fears municipal government might be forced on them.

"They will do anything moral or immoral to halt this from happening."

Stiven says Wilde told him after the meeting "anything is fair in love and war" but he replied "I want to know that war has been declared."

Stiven says the meeting degenerated when table groups attempted to make their reports. It was at this point that Wilde introduced a motion condemning the idea of a resource board.

The chairman says it was impossible ". . . with the charges and countercharges being made . . . to bring the meeting back to order.

"I feel very discouraged by the series of events."

Stiven says the committee will meet within a week to decide if another attempt will be made to create a board.

At one point in the meeting Stiven admitted that he and others on the committee were not in favor of the resource board.

"I shouldn't have said this. I was the chairman and I should have been impartial. "But I was being hassled and I did say it."

Waterman this morning says the human resources branch is "trying to get up a series of fall guys should anything go wrong with their programs . . . such as the overspending in the department this year."

He says "all it sets up is another group through which government money must pass through. Every time money passes over hands some of it gets stuck on those hands . . . to pay expenses, hire staff etc. Someone has to pay the extras and that's you and me . . . the taxpayers."

Wilde said after the meeting she was not there as the president of the ratepayers but "as a concerned taxpayer."

Rentals Office 'Chaos'

One of the most frustrating experiences imaginable is trying to telephone the B.C. Rentalsman's office in Vancouver, says Jim Nelson of the Victoria Rental Aid Service.

Nelson said he tried "10 times in a row" Monday to get through to Rentalsman Barrie Clark, leaving 10 minutes between attempts, but each time he had a busty signal.

"Tenants are complaining, landlords are complaining . . . it's just chaos," he said, adding that the frustration in Victoria is resulting in heavy demands on his office.

Nelson said Clark's 20 phones in Vancouver are obviously inadequate to handle a province-wide volume of inquiries and complaints — "he probably needs at least 60."

He said one partial solution to local problems will be for Clark to open a Victoria-area office as soon as possible. Nelson has offered to act as an agent for the Rentalsman in this respect, but the only reponse has been a letter saying the offer is being considered.

Nelson was trying to contact Clark Tuesday to accept an offer, extended three weeks ago, for him to visit and study the Rentalsman's operation in Vancouver.

Native Program Funds Cut

Camosun staff has proposed the college assume the cost of a reduced program, and the college council is expected to approve the move next week.

"It's not good but it's better than none at all. That's the only consolation," said Dixon Taylor, head of the native Indian program, about the proposed reduced program today.

The smaller college-funded program would eliminate Taylor's job, and that of his secretary and a counsellor and leave only one counsellor to handle Indian problems exclusively.

The new program would offer a number of the same courses now offered for native Indians, such as upgrading and small business management and native Indian studies.

The new program would cost the college $60,000 to $80,000, principal Dr. Grant Fisher told the college council's curriculum committee Monday.

The program now funded by Indian affairs had a $250,000 budget this year.

Taylor said the cutback results from a policy change in Indian affairs. Funds are no longer administered by the department regionally but are sent directly to Indian bands to give them local control of education.

The new policy has already caused a dramatic drop in enrolment in the native Indian program, he said, because students have had difficulty this year getting living allowances from Indian affairs to attend the college.

Enrolment this year in the academic upgrading courses is 15 compared with 50 to 60 last year, said Taylor.

He said he thinks local control of education is a good idea, but the policy is being carried out in "typical Indian affairs fashion."

Instead of gradually phasing out the regional funding that kept programs like the Camosun one going, the department cuts it off completely, he said.

Taylor said he fears there may be a two to five-year gap before local bands are able to establish their own educational facilities.

But the Indians' need for education will still be there, he said.

APPEAL SOUGHT FOR OSBOURNE

Osbourne's lawyer, Lloyd McKenzie, said today he has written to the Legal Aid Society recommending an appeal be launched.

McKenzie said he expects to hear within a week whether Legal Aid will support an appeal.

An appeal, McKenzie said, must be filed within 45 days of conviction.

He did not expect to present any new evidence in an appeal, but would review evidence at the trial and the charge to the jury from the judge.

Ferry Union Huddles

Union negotiators were to meet today to decide what action to follow on behalf of 600 licensed officers of B.C. Ferries fleet whose contract mediation talks broke down last week.

The union and public service commission spent two days with mediator Ed Sims, who was not able to bring the sides together by Friday. Officers belong to B.C. Government Employees' Union, Marine (licensed) Branch.

Negotiating chairman John MacLean, of Ganges, said the union has been living with the BCGEU master agreement and wishes to stay with it, but the management wants changes as have been imposed upon the unlicensed branch.

MacLean said B.C. Ferries wants to change hours of work, statutory holidays and the right of individuals to refuse overtime work. In addition, there had been no agreement on wages.

The negotiating chairman said government negotiators had "never moved on anything," and from the start had "not negotiated in good faith."

Sick Girl Snips Ropes Saves Cash

By DEREK SIDENIUS
Times Staff

Eighteen-year-old Nancy Hemeon couldn't have picked a better day to be ill Monday.

Asleep in a second floor bedroom of her parent's elegant two-storey home at 753 Pemberton, she awoke to the cry of her mother yelling for her.

"I couldn't believe it. I thought she had been shot. I became almost hysterical," Nancy told the Times today.

Mrs. Hemeon cried out: "Go next door and call police — no wait, untie me first!"

The two ran to a neighbor's house where Mrs. Hemeon phoned her husband, Roger, manager of the Royal Bank of Canada, at 1108 Government. Too late. He'd left. She contacted Victoria police and related to them what had happened.

At about 2:10 p.m. Monday the mother of seven had answered a knock at the back door and found two men wearing ski masks and sun glasses — one pointing a gun at her, thd other a dagger.

She said they ordered her to "get back".

"At first I thought it was a joke," she said today. "But it only took 30 seconds before I realized they meant business."

The gunmen asked her name, where her husband was, and whether anyone else was home.

Thinking quickly she replied she was alone — three of her children were at school, another two at work, a seventh lives on his own.

She said she didn't tell them about Nancy:

"I didn't put up any fight because I didn't want to wake her . . . I knew she would panic and be more of a hindrance than a help."

The gunman forced her to call her husband at the bank. "Speak to no one else," he warned. He then took the phone and told Hemeon to place $30,000 in small bills in a bag, drive to UVic's Centennial Stadium parking lot, walk away and leave the package on the front seat of his car.

"We'll give you half an hour — do as we say or your wife will get it," he added.

Hemeon did as he was told.

The men cut the telephone wire, then tied Mrs. Hemeon's wrists and ankles with fibreglas tape they brought and placed an elastic bandage over her mouth.

"They were going to put me in a hall cupboard but I said it was too small and probably I wouldn't fit."

They carried her instead into a den off the kitchen. The gag slipped off but they didn't stop to put it back on. They shut the door and went out back telling her not to move because someone would be watching her.

She said later she didn't believe them and that when they had gone out she wiggled her way across the floor.

"Fortunately when they closed the door the latch didn't click. I couldn't have got out if it had. I got my fingers under the door and inched it open."

She flopped her way to the bottom of the staircase and screamed for Nancy who was sound asleep.

"I could hear her calling in the distance," Nancy said. "I knew by the sound of her voice something was wrong."

Mrs. Hemeon said if Nancy hadn't been at home she wouldn't have been able to get free.

"This house is an old one, well built and with thick walls. I don't think anyone could have heard me outside."

Nancy, who works as a bank teller, said it was "a miracle" she was at home.

"I never, never get sick. But Monday when I woke up I just couldn't go to work. I was really, really tired."

Victoria police said they got the call from Mrs. Hemeon at 2:40 p.m. and were at the scene of the drop-off within minutes.

"They were so quick they were probably there before the men arrived," Mrs. Hemeon said. "From our place to the university is a good 15-minute drive."

The money hadn't been taken from the Hemeon car.

Police from Victoria, Saanich and Oak Bay set up a stake-out but called it off at 4:30 p.m. Fearing the men may return, an officer spent the night inside the Hemeon home and patrols in the area were stepped up.

Police described the men as 5'6" to 5'7" tall and probably in their early 20s. They were wearing blue jeans and running shoes. One wore a beige coat, the other a denim coat.

Vancouver Church Burns

VANCOUVER (CP) — A historic Vancouver landmark was lost today when fire destroyed St. John's United Church at 1401 Comox. The spectacular blaze was fought by more than 100 firemen using 14 pieces of equipment.

Only the stone walls and the steeple remained surrounding the gutted ruins of the church interior as firemen mopped up.

Damage was estimated at about $1 million by C. I. Colwell, chairman of the church board. This included a pipe organ installed in 1907 valued at $60,000 and a wrought iron rail around the balcony valued at $100,000.

Colwell said the church was only insured at one-half to three-quarter of its total value.

The fire began about 2 a.m. and when firemen first arrived on the scene it was only a two-alarm blaze.

More equipment was called in as the fire spread. By the height of the blaze, when flames engulfed nearly all of the roof and interior, it was a five-alarm fire.

The fire was under control by 4:30 a.m.

Cause of the fire is unknown.

Industry Takeovers For U.K.

LONDON (CP) — The Labor government announced plans today to nationalize key British industries, including aircraft construction and shipbuilding. It also said it intends to increase government participation in North Sea oil development.

The plans were announced in the speech from the throne, read at the opening of Parliament by the Queen.

No timetable was announced for the nationalization program. The Labor government obtained a majority in winning the Oct. 10 election and might stay in power as long as five years.

The government also announced that laws will be introduced to take over community ownership of land required for development, to safeguard tourists against failure of travel firms, and to end sex discrimination.

The government also said it intends to hold a referendum within 12 months so the British people can decide whether they want Britain to remain in the European Common Market.

Intensive security precautions were in force as the Queen drove from Buckingham Palace to the House of Commons to read the speech. Hundreds of mounted and foot police lined the Queen's route in the tightest security many observers recalled in the British capital.

The government also announced plans to set up a National Enterprise Board to extend state participation in the private sector of industry, and to set up assemblies for Scotland and Wales.

VANCOUVER CRACKDOWN

17 Held in Drug Swoop

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCMP launched a major narcotics crackdown in Vancouver overnight and warrants were issued for the arrest of 25 persons, some of them alleged to be major figures in the international drug trade, officials here said today.

Seventeen of those named were surprised in their homes and police are looking for the other eight.

One RCMP official said the 25 represent a "high-powered" group. He said RCMP action will have great impact on the illicit flow of drugs through Vancouver from the Orient.

The "bust" is the latest in a series of actions over the last two months which has seen the seizure of drugs worth between $4.5 million and $5 million on the illicit market, officials said.

The RCMP said warrants were issued at the end of an undercover operation directed at "high level" drug trafficking. A young constable working undercover bought a considerable quantity of heroin, cocaine and opium, the officials said.

The operation started in June. Police said the operation Monday night uncovered three pounds two ounces, plus 256 one-fix caps of heroin, worth about $500,000 on the street; one pound seven ounces and five spoons of cocaine worth $39,000; and two pounds one gram of opium worth about $1,200.

The news of the RCMP action comes a week after narcotics enforcement representatives from France, Canada and the United States meeting here made note of the increase in drug traffic through Vancouver.

The representatives and RCMP officials said that Oriental trade has grown since Turkey cut off the major source of opium — the base for heroin — by stopping farmers from growing it.

The oriental heroin flowed through Vancouver and other North American ports and through Amsterdam in Europe.

Police said some of the drugs arriving in Vancouver were for markets elsewhere in Canada and the United States. But they also said it was natural for narcotics to flow into Vancouver because between 60 and 70 per cent of Canadian addicts live in British Columbia.

RCMP officials estimate there are 16,000 to 19,000 addicts in Canada at present.

TRAINER with leashed police dog patrols the grounds outside The Hague's Scheveningen Prison today where four armed convicts are in the fourth day of a siege with 16 hostages. Monday night, they freed an 11-year-old boy, the last of four children being held. Today the men demanded a plane to fly them to freedom.

U.S. Index Signals 'Bad Times'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. commerce department said today the index of leading economic indicators suffered its worst plunge in 23 years last month.

"The index seems to be delivering a message, a signal that bad times are ahead," a department economist said.

The index, which measures the progress of eight sectors of the American economy ranging from unemployment to stock market prices, dropped 2.5 per cent from August to September. It was the sharpest monthly plunge since 2.9 per cent in June, 1951.

The September index showed that unemployment increased, manufacturers' orders for appliances and other durable goods declined, stock prices and building permits fell and the prices for industrial materials were lower.

In addition, manufacturers placed orders for new equipment which could not be delivered and the ratio of prices to labor costs increased.

He said the September decline was largely due to the falling stock market in September but the market recovered in October.

But a department economist said the "general decline in indicators suggests that there is an overwhelming indication that further declines in economic activity are ahead."

2-TONE HORN AMBULANCE

The two-tone horn used on emergency vehicles in Europe has been adopted by the British Columbia Emergency Health Services Commission for the provincial ambulance fleet.

Dr. Peter Ransford, the commission's executive director, said today use of the two-tone klaxon has been reserved by the motor vehicles branch for exclusive use of ambulances.

There are two advantages to a distinctive sound for emergency vehicles, he suggested. It will tell people an ambulance is coming and provide a less terrifying sound than the traditional siren for patients carried in ambulances.

4-Cent Hike Seen In Milk Prices

Price of a quart of milk will likely rise four cents in Victoria next week, partially because of the removal of a federal subsidy to milk producers.

Increased production costs of raw milk and packaging materials are also a factor, said Neil Gray, assistant general manager of the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association.

The federal government's five-cent-a-quart subsidy is being removed in stages, with two cents now, two cents in January and the rest before the end of February, said Gray.

More increases in retail rates can be expected in 1974 then, he said.

Meanwhile, the Retail Council of Canada has advised grocery stores that they are under no obligation to pass on to consumers a 24-cent-a-pound federal skim milk powder subsidy, council spokesman Alistair Smith said Monday.

In a telephone interview from Toronto, Smith said retailers have been told they "run the risk of a certain amount of government criticism" if they refuse to pass on the subsidy.

But there was no law requiring them to sell at set prices simply because of the government subsidy program.

Under the year-old program, the government makes payments to processors who keep their prices from rising. Processors, in turn, are asked to make sure the lower prices are passed on to consumers.

Surrey Man Shot

SURREY (CP) — Surrey RCMP said they are searching for a suspect and a number of accomplices in the shooting death of a 22-year-old man today.

The victim was shot at about 12:40 a.m. His name has not been released. Police said they suspect the shooting followed an altercation in a hotel parking lot.

CABINET AIDES' WAGES UP 10%

Salary increases of just over 10 per cent have been granted to provincial government employees appointed by the cabinet.

Granted Monday, the increases mean the average executive assistant to a minister will make more than $19,000, and heads of several government boards will get more than $43,000.

Increases were also given to secretaries to cabinet ministers, MLAs and opposition caucuses.

Standard salary for a ministerial executive assistant will be $19,465, up from $17,628; administrative assistants will receive $23,710 a year, up from $21,500; and heads of the Labor Relations Board, the Law Reform Commission and the Police Commission will get $43,055 a year, up from $39,000.

The Social Credit administrative assistant, Dan Campbell, will be paid $19,465 and Liberal assistant, Gerry Kristianson will get $14,425.

GRAIN MEN OFF 'SICK' AGAIN TODAY

Bill Longmuir of the Canadian Grain Commission said most of the 48 West Coast inspectors had called in sick.

The bookoff comes only two weeks after Parliament ended the seven-week grainhandlers' dispute.

Victoria's two grain inspectors have not joined the bookoffs and were on the job Monday and today.

Nixon 'Stable' After Surgery

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Former president Nixon underwent emergency surgery Tuesday after discovery of a new blood clot endangering his life and doctors said afterwards their insertion of a clip on a vein in his groin should overcome the danger permanently.

The 61-year-old Nixon was described as "doing well" and in "stable" condition after an operation of about an hour starting at 5:30 a.m. by five doctors at Long Beach Memorial Hospital.

The "urgent surgery" was ordered Monday night, with Nixon's agreement, by his personal physician, Dr. John Lungren, when a new test showed another clot in the left leg above those found before and closer to the vena cava which leads directly to the heart.

Circled Maps May Mark Grisly Death Trail

VANCOUVER (CP) — Detectives on both sides of the border today are trying to piece together evidence in what they fear may be a grisly trail of sex murders stretching from B.C. and the western U.S. to Minnesota.

Minneapolis officials said a suspect, held in lieu of $250,000 bail, is charged with kidnapping, attempted murder and an unnatural sex act with a 19-year-old woman, five offences against a 13-year-old girl and aggravated assault on a 17-year-old "for now."

Maps seized in Seattle and Minneapolis in connection with the arrest of a 47-year-old man in Minneapolis have police working on the theory that circles drawn on them could indicate where the bodies of victims are buried.

There are more than 200 places marked on Washington and Minnesota state highway maps.

"We're trying to place the man in B.C.," said Staff-Sgt. Fred Bondaruk, head of the RCMP's special murder squad, who spent six days last week working with the Hennepin County sheriff's office in Minneapolis.

"We know he's been through Vancouver and parts of the province, and we want to determine the exact times and places."

The man, described by one Seattle detective as "a brutal savage," is under investigation for at least two murders in the Minneapolis area.

In both the B.C. and Minnesota killings, the victims were sexually assaulted before they were bludgeoned to death. However, Bonkaruk said no circled maps of B.C. have been found.

The man, who has spent more than 20 years in U.S. prisons, had been sentenced to death after admitting the rape and murder of a 57-year-old woman in Anchorage in 1949. But the conviction was
